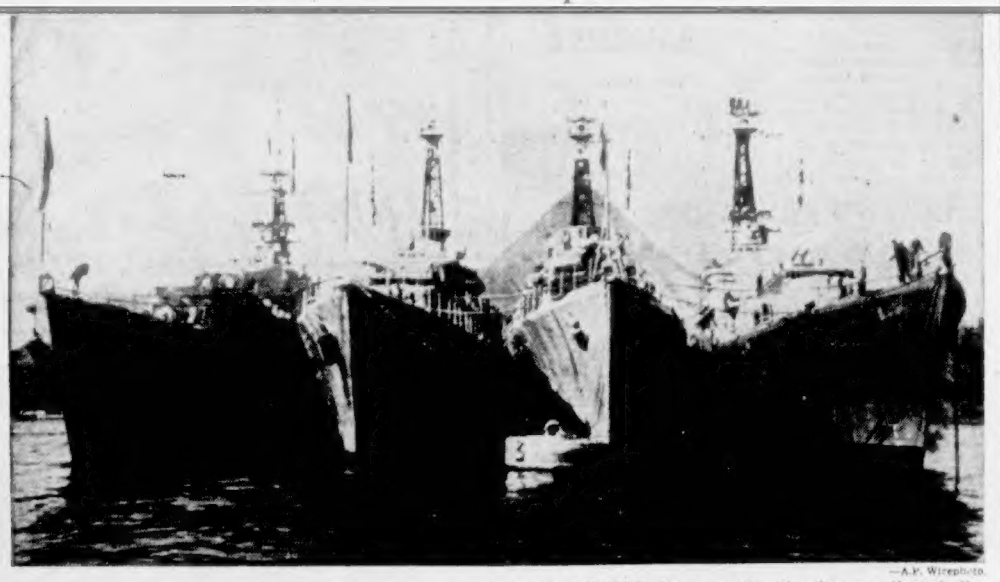
Brief Reunion in Japanese Port



—A.P. Wirephoto.

Even as H.M.C.S. Sioux was thrusting her way through the Pacific on the way from Hawaii to Esquimalt, this picture came from the Far East to show her last stop in the Orient. Here, on the eve of her departure for home, the Sioux is shown at a Japanese base with the other Canadian destroyers on Korean duty—the Cayuga and Athabaskan, with which she served, and the Nootka, which sailed from Halifax to relieve her.

Vote Brands Red China As Aggressor in Korea

Canada Joins Majority In U.N. Committee Ballot

LAKE SUCCESS, Jan. 30 (AP).—The United Nations political committee tonight branded Communist China an aggressor in Korea by an overwhelming vote of 44 to 7.

It left wide open the question of future military or economic sanctions against Peiping and clearly failed to give Gen. Douglas MacArthur authority to bomb Red Chinese territory.

The history-making decision was taken at the climax of a vain fight by the Arab-Asian bloc for another attempt at a cease-fire in Korea and peace negotiations. Just before the ballot, India's despairing delegate, Sir Benegal Rau, cried out that the Asian bloc had tried to halt the march toward "disaster" and that the result would cut off all negotiations with Red China.

DECISIVE MARGIN

The Arab-Asian proposal was beaten by decisive majorities and the vote for the United Nations' resolution condemning Red China followed.

The condemnation paragraph was approved by the same vote as that on the whole resolution, 44 to 7.

On the resolution as a whole, eight countries abstained and Saudi Arabia did not take part in the vote.

Britain, Canada and France voted with the United States.

Voting against were Burma, India, Russia, Poland, White Russia, Ukraine.

Canada abstained on the vote on the Arab-Asian plan. She supported the first part of the U.S. resolution, then voted for the resolution as a whole.

MAY ACT THURSDAY

The final vote was more than enough for the two-thirds majority required for General Assembly action. The assembly is tentatively set to meet Thursday for final action.

Rau interpreted the decision to close the door for peaceful settlement, but members voting for the United States resolution said the way still is open.

The committee rejected by a piece-meal vote the Arab-Asian proposal.

The vote was on a paragraph-by-paragraph basis. The first section was defeated by a vote of 18 in favor, 27 against and 14 abstentions.

The second section was defeated by a vote 14 for, 32 against and 14 abstentions. These were the key parts.

The last section of the Arab-Asian resolution, which said the first meeting of the proposed conference would be held at a date to be agreed upon, was defeated, 17 in favor, 28 opposed and 13 abstaining.

Allies Attack Chinese Reds On Wide Front

TOKIO, Jan. 31 (Wednesday) (AP).—Allied troops today broadened their Korean offensive by launching a general attack on the central front. In the west, United Nations forces battled Chinese Reds within nine miles of Seoul.

Off Korea's east coast, a United Nations' naval force, led by the United States battleship Missouri, opened a terrific bombardment on the Red communications centre of Kosong — the second pounding in two days.

The United States 10th Corps moved forward cautiously in the central sector at dawn while the United States 1st and 9th Corps cut down counter-attacking Reds in the west.

NO RESISTANCE

A field dispatch said a battalion moved forward 500 yards in the first stages of the central advance without meeting enemy resistance.

In the west, one Allied patrol ranged within seven miles of Seoul and spotted entrenched Reds. That was 11 miles northwest of Suwon.

The Missouri, a cruiser and nine destroyers of the United States 7th Fleet shelled Kansong far into the night Tuesday, then moved north and opened the Kosong bombardment at dawn.

On the east coast, a South Korean spearhead behind a curtain of naval gunfire and aerial bombs stabbed to within 20 miles of the 38th Parallel.

The Canadian destroyer Cayuga joined American warships in shelling installations at Inchon, on the west coast.

Girl Recovering From Burns

Seriously burned Saturday night when her nightclothes caught fire as she was warming herself in front of a fire, Anita Higgins, 12, 1895 Foul Bay Road, has made a quick recovery in Royal Jubilee Hospital. She is pictured above with her mother looking over a number of "get well" cards she has received. Most severely burned were Anita's legs.

Arena Profit Plan Intended as Prod

As a means of "prodding" the Memorial Arena Commission to the making of bigger profits through the operation of the arena City Council yesterday approved a resolution requiring the commission to pay all operating profits to the city.

The city will retain $25,000 annually and return any excess to the commission to be used to pay for improvements to the building.

The agreement is to be effective for a three-year period.

SEEKS IMPROVEMENTS

The commission currently has sought permission to carry out improvements to cost a total of $41,000, while its net operating profit for seven months ending December 31, 1950, was only $15,011.

Desired improvements include: Storage shed, $8,000; wood floor to cover arena floor, $12,000; miscellaneous small items, $6,000; glass to replace protective wire around whole ice floor, $21,000.

Alderman William Pinfold declared the new agreement meant that the city was leasing the arena for $25,000 a year and putting the entire responsibility for operating and management in the hands of the Arena Commission.

END EXPENDITURES

He stated that the city felt it was entitled to some return from such a large investment and that it had been decided a halt must be called on capital expenditures.

"If they pay us $25,000 a year the rest can be spent for improvements," he said, admitting that the sum would not pay full principal and interest charges on the building.

Alderman Pinfold stated that the commission should be able to show greater profits with good management.

"This should be a prod for the Arena management to get down to business and make some money," he said.

Alderman Waldo Skillings said about $65,000 would be required to pay off annual principal and interest charges on the arena over a period of from 15 to 20 years. He said the building should have a life of from 50 to 60 years. He agreed the annual payment from the commission could safely be cut to $25,000.

"If arrangements were carried on as in the past, the corporation would never receive any money to retire the arena debt," he said. "This should put it on more of a business basis."

Council Accepts Mass Resignation

Resignations of the nine council-appointed members of the Town Planning Commission were accepted yesterday by City Council.

The resignations were submitted in a group earlier this month, when it was stated the commission felt that too many of its recommendations were being ignored by council.

At a meeting of council two weeks ago it was decided to appeal individually to each of the town planners to reconsider resigning. As a result of this appeal, council last week received a letter from Forrest L. Shaw, commission chairman, asking for a joint meeting with council. The letter also suggested a number of points to be discussed at such a meeting. These included the possible constitution of the commission as a zoning committee of council and the commision's request that all rejections of its recommendations be considered by the whole council.

The motion to accept the resignations was made yesterday by Alderman Waldo Skillings.

"The council is elected by the citizens at large and we are responsible to them," he said. "The commission is purely an appointed board. Whether or not its recommendations are accepted depends on the elected council."

Alderman Skillings said he felt that many members of the old commission would agree to serve on a new commission.

Aldermen agreed with his suggestion that the new commission should be established at the next meeting of council in the same way that the Arena Commission is appointed.

Thus council at its next meeting will nominate a slate of candidates, then cast ballots.

'Ludicrous,' Says Doctor, Refusing to Test Drunks

By GORDON FORBES

Declaring that the handling of drunken driving cases in the city of Victoria is "ludicrous," Dr. E. L. McNiven, who conducts sobriety tests on drivers, said yesterday he will not answer any further city police calls to make the tests "until some changes have been made."

Dr. McNiven has outlined his reasons in a letter which Mayor Percy E. George will receive this morning.

Because of the reluctance of city doctors to conduct the tests, Dr. McNiven's "resignation" probably will leave the city without a doctor to examine suspected drunken drivers.

Here is Dr. McNiven's letter to Mayor George:

TELLS WHY

"I am thoroughly convinced that the situation concerning the handling of drunken driving cases in the city of Victoria is ludicrous, and I am going to tell you why I think so.

"For the time being, in each case, I am an employee of the city acting as a temporary police medical examiner and I have yet to be questioned by the prosecution in the preliminary preparation of any of their cases.

"The subject of alcohol and its reactions are extremely tricky and much depends on the relative relationship and importance of time elapsed, quantity consumed and the condition of the consumer. An important factor that is seldom considered is that alcohol is not the only thing that causes a person to sway dizzily.

NOT THE SAME

"The man on the street knows full well that because two people have consumed the same quantity of alcohol, it doesn't mean they will be under the influence to the same degree.

"I feel that lack of co-operation is shown when your medical examiner's opinions are completely ignored. If confidence is not placed in his opinions, get another examiner.

"It does not seem to matter very much whether your prosecution medical witness can give evidence either for or against the charge as finally laid, but he is asked, nevertheless, to give his evidence—even though other prosecution witnesses give garbled reports that conflict.

"Your prosecutor recently said in open court: 'The obligation is on me to see that a person is not brought into court unless there is reasonable chance of conviction. Where there is a direct conflict, the responsibility is on me to dismiss (not lay) the charge.

"To me there is an obvious lack of co-operation in the preparation and prosecution of these drunken driving cases, with the end result that embarrassment and frustration are felt by all concerned. This lack of co-operation has been noted on a number of occasions during the past year.

"You are probably wondering why I continued to answer police calls. I did so in order to assure myself that this lack of co-operation was not imagination on my part.

"I now give you notice that I will not answer any further city of Victoria police calls on sobriety cases until some changes have been made. This does not apply to emergency calls of any other nature."

Fast-Spreading Flames Kill 20 in Home for Aged

HOQUIAM, Wash., Jan. 30 (AP).—A noon-day fire today roared through a rambling frame home for the aged, killing 20 elderly persons. Many of them were trapped in their beds.

Police Lieut. C. A. Potter and Fire Chief Glenn W. Haney said the blaze flared from an iron stove in a drying room at 11:45 a.m. (P.S.T.).

It spread with sickening speed through rooms in which many patients lay too ill or feeble to move.

SIX DIE LATER

Thirty elderly persons were in the home when the fire swept through the house. Fourteen suffocated and burned in the home. Sixteen were rescued by firemen and volunteers. Six of the rescued later died—five of burns and one of a heart attack.

Unknown Rescuer Saves Boy From Portage Inlet

An unknown hero helped avert a repetition of Sunday's skating tragedy when he pulled a 14-year-old boy from the waters of Portage Inlet yesterday afternoon.

The youth, John Earl Mercer of 2874 Murray Drive, was walking on the ice with his dog 100 yards from shore when the ice gave way. Saanich police say the depth of the water at that point is about 50 feet.

The boy managed to struggle part of the way to safety when a man with a hockey stick crawled onto the ice and dragged him to shore. The man warned other skating children off the ice, then disappeared without leaving his name.

Constable George Walton of Saanich police was called to the scene after the boy had been saved. He secured a boat and made an effort to save the dog which was still in the water. He managed to get close to the struggling animal, but it clambered onto the ice and slithered to shore unaided.

SKATERS PERSIST

Despite repeated warnings and Sunday's drowning at Beacon Hill Park, many people persisted in skating at Portage Inlet and Swan Lake yesterday, police said.

"We've been chasing them off both places all day," said a Saanich police constable last night.

Both John and his dog were apparently none the worse for their experience last night, but the boy's shaken mother, Mrs. H. E. Mercer, saw that he went to bed immediately.

The rescuer's name was still unknown last night.

Scots to Set Fate of Stone

EDINBURGH, Jan. 30 (Reuters).—A typewritten notice, nailed to the door of St. Giles' Cathedral tonight, asked the Scottish people what they want done with the stolen "Stone of Destiny."

The typewritten sheet—discovered by reporters after an anonymous phone call drew their attention to it—said the stone had been "brought . . . over the border on Hogmanay Night (New Year's Eve) in 1950."

"In the face of imprisonment, we reaffirm our resolution to retain this ancient symbol of Scottish nationality in our country unless it be the clearly demonstrated will of the Scottish people that the stone be handed back to the Church of England," the notice said.

Metropolitan Plans

Canadian Chain to Build $300,000 Victoria Store

A new $300,000 Metropolitan Store will be built in Victoria.

R. C. Wallar, president of Metropolitan Stores Ltd., with headquarters in London, Ont., said in a long distance telephone interview from the Ontario city yesterday that work on the two-story structure would commence about the first of March.

The present store on Douglas Street near Yates, which closed for alterations about the end of 1950, will be torn down.

TORN DOWN

The new store will be L-shaped and will also have a major frontage on Yates Street, west of the Dominion Bank. Three stores now located there will be torn down as soon as they are vacated. The building is adjacent to the Surrey Block on Yates Street.

Total floor area in the building will be about 34,400 square feet. It will feature a 90-stool lunch counter covering about 1,400 square feet.

He expected the new store to be completed by November 15. Local labor and materials will be used in construction as far as possible.

River Recedes At Princeton

PRINCETON, B.C., Jan. 30 (CP).—Waters of the Tulameen and Similkameen Rivers, which spilled over a 30-mile front to force 200 persons from their homes here, receded today.

The situation improved sufficiently to permit some of the evacuees to return to their homes late today.

Damage to homes in this town 182 miles east of Vancouver was estimated at roughly $10,000. The river waters, backed up by an ice jam, poured into about 40 homes.

Mrs. Sullivan To Stand Trial

OTTAWA, Jan. 30 (CP).—Mrs. Marion Sullivan, 48-year-old Toronto mother of two children, will stand trial tomorrow on a charge of manslaughter, arising out of the death of her lawyer husband.

Regardless of size, shape or color it's going to cost every man a dollar bill for a haircut from now on. There were plenty of complaints from Victorians yesterday over 25-cent jump in prices but those with a "receding hairline" were most bitter. Most barbers noted a decline in business, but explained the lack of customers as due to cold weather and "just the usual slow Tuesday." Luigh Perri (sitting in chair) has operated a shoe shine business in Victoria for the last 40 years and usually has a smile for everyone. Paying a dollar to barber Eric Holyoak for a light trim, however, he didn't smile.

Suzie Captivates Sioux

Brown-Eyed Lady Lives in Luxury Aboard Homeward-Bound Destroyer

ABOARD H.M.C.S. SIOUX, Jan. 30.—There is a little brown-eyed lady aboard this destroyer who gets a lot of attention from officers and crew alike. She has a free run of the ship and at times arouses much anxiety—especially when she wanders, and sometimes sits, within inches of the deck edge and gazes far down to swirling waters.

Predominantly white, with big splashes of chestnut brown, Suzie is truly a sea dog. She was only three weeks old when A.B. Verne Briskham bought her in a Japanese naval base for 300 yen (about 75 cents). That was early last August. Suzie was little more than a ball of fuzz then. Today she is a husky little gal, and regarded as a full-fledged member of her ship.

HARD KNOCKS

Becoming a sea dog has not been just a matter of time; Suzie has been seasick, and she's been rescued from the sea. And there have been unpleasant experiences with fresh paint.

While the ship was anchored off Inchon, she was snooping around the deck and lost her balance. It was a long drop into the icy water. P.O. Harry Tivy soon found out how cold the water was. He jumped overboard to rescue the helpless pup, swimming around the stern to make the rescue. The dog was given a shower and a brisk rubdown after her chilling experience.

Soon after being brought aboard, Suzie took a shine to A.B. William Lord, and "adopted" him as her lord and master. It's Seaman Lord's standing job to see that the mascot gets her meals and proper attention.

FOOD FADDIST

Suzie is fussy about her meals. She likes eggs, but they must be scrambled. She could eat candies until she looked like one if given the chance. She won't even look at dog food.

Rambling around the ship, Suzie gets messed up sometimes with oil and more than once has brushed against wet paint. She gets regular baths, and gets a big kick out of being dried in the ship's laundry drier.

SHIP SHAPE

If anyone thinks he is going to see a drab and messy ship next Sunday when the Sioux returns to Esquimalt, he is in for a big surprise. Seven months will have passed since this ship—with the Athabaskan and Cayuga—left her base, but she has not lacked attention.

Her men are proud of her. There is pride in their voices when they openly claim the Sioux is the best

ALL ABOARD

By G. E. Mortimore

The conductor boomed "'Boord," and the engine away up front puffed heavily. The colored porters stopped trading jokes and handed up last-minute passengers. Redcaps disappeared.

The Canadian Pacific Railway's "Dominion" began to creep out of the station, bound for Montreal. People waved. A small boy, dragging his mother by the hand, so as to stay with the train as long as possible.

"How far are you going?" his father asked from the train. "Plan to run all the way?"

The little boy and his mother gave up the race, and we moved from the station into the night, passing dark warehouses, sheds, wharves, and the rest of the sad face which a sizable town usually turns to the railway.

We had a salad in the diner and came back to find a porter making down the berths. A little girl was skipping beside him.

"I like to make beds," she said, "I like to watch you make beds."

"You just go ahead and watch, then," he said. "You go right ahead."

"I suppose you make all the beds when you get home," my wife suggested.

"Well, no, I don't," the porter said. "My wife asks me, 'You want to make the bed today?' I say, 'No, thanks.' "

We also had a short talk with a self-possessed red-headed boy, aged about ten, who was making for Winnipeg on his own. He carried a fearsome-looking popgun which shot rubber balls. This, he was careful to point out, had been a birthday present, not a Christmas present. He was going to stay with his grandmother, and return to school.

When I stepped out for a cigarette in the smoking-room, I fell into talk with Tom Baylis, of Moose Jaw, returning with his wife from a holiday in Victoria. Tom said he spent a fair time around Victoria in army days, and had been hankering to go back. Now he had seen the place again, he was perfectly happy to live in Moose Jaw. I didn't press him to tell me why.

Tom Baylis and Roy Murdock of The Colonist spent some time together in New Guinea and thereabouts fighting the Japanese in one of the nastiest campaigns of the late war. They were among a handful of Canadians attached to Australian and New Zealand forces.

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Gordon, long-time Victoria residents now living in Nanaimo, were making a fast trip to Rivers, Man., for the wedding of their R.C.A.F. son, Ronald, to Christine MacDonald, of White Rock, B.C.

Travel is fairly light at this time of the year, and we had plenty of room to move about. The berth above us was untenanted, so we could spread our paraphernalia—books, pamphlets and maps, gloves, coats and scarves, ready for the nipping cold we expected on the Rockies and the Prairies.

Preparing to go away is an ordeal for me, as I mentioned, but traveling is no trouble at all. You are relieved of all responsibility, and whatever you pioneers may say about the joy of doing things for yourself, it's a noble feeling to be idle while other people trundle you along and supply your needs.

It's comfortable, too. The dirt and the stale, musty smell which I used to associate with trains has been banished from these air-conditioned carriages. As the train rolled up the Fraser Valley, we climbed into our snug lower berth and after those mild gymnastics which one needs to get undressed, went to sleep.

I awoke at Sicamous, and stared through the half-light at Shuswap Lake, and at the people in the bright station lunch-room. Dozed for a while, and blinked awake to stare at snowy trees and hills—first snow we had seen since a fractional fall in Victoria several weeks before.

The slim, conical pines wore white caps and coats, and the dark hills were dusted over with snow. Presently houses appeared and we rattled across the half-frozen Columbia into Revelstoke, where we padded around the platform, watched crews refilling the water tanks, glanced at the small model moose and mountain goats which have been placed in a booth for the information of tourists, and had a coffee. The air nipped enough to make us feel lively, but it was pleasant.

While we slept, the train had carried us up the rugged Fraser Canyon and along the Thompson and South Thompson. While we had our morning doze, we rolled through the Gold Range. If we hadn't been so lazy, we might have looked out at Craigellachie, where Donald A. Smith, the future Lord Strathcona, drove the last spike in the transcontinental line of the C.P.R. on November 7, 1885.

It was near here that Walter Moberly, pathfinding in an earlier day, saw two eagles in a nest, fired a revolver at them, and watched them wing away down the valley. It struck him that if he followed them, he would find the pass through the mountains which the C.P.R. needed so desperately.

After a back-breaking trek he found the cleft and blazed a cedar tree: "This is the pass for the Overland Railway." He called it "Eagle Pass," and lived to make a liar out of Captain Palliser, who had reported that the C.P.R. must fail because there was no way through the Gold Range.

Moberly and many like him struggled through the wilderness; surveyors, engineers, and pick-and-shovel men worked long years to drive through the line which carried us here so easily. They sweated to open a way for men and goods which made British Columbia and Canada prosperous; and for little boys with popguns traveling to their grandmothers in Winnipeg, and comfort-loving sluggards like me.

We climbed aboard again, and now we're rolling east toward the Selkirks and the Rocky Mountains.

Tricky Boots Used Vanity In Death Plot

ROME, Jan. 30 —(Reuters).—Capt. Gualtiero Gualtierotti clicked his heels once too often—and literally hit the ceiling. A thwarted rival had planted dynamite in the heels of his boots and the captain disintegrated before his commanding officer.

This was back in 1937, but it has taken all this time to bring the rival to justice. Pier Luigi Tambugliani faces trial next month.

Tambugliani had sworn revenge when the captain stole away his fiancee, who committed suicide when abandoned by Gualtierotti.

Tambugliani decided to get his revenge by exploiting the captain's major weakness: handsome clothes and women to match.

A perfectly-fitting pair of riding boots was delivered to Gualtierotti's home. With them was a note in a feminine hand begging him to accept the gift.

When he reported to his commanding officer, Gualtierotti saluted, clicked—and exploded.

Later it was found that two tiny detonators were contrived in each heel to go off when clicked soundly.

After a 13-year investigation, Tambugliani confessed.

and happiest ship of the entire United Nations fleet in the Korean war service.

Since yesterday morning, when the destroyer left Pearl Harbor after a three-day stopover, there has been an extra special effort under way to prepare the ship for her homecoming. Groups of men are busy scraping and painting large sections of the deck. Living quarters are being tidied. There is, of course, a set program of deck scrubbing and soap and water brushing at all times. But this week is special.

CALM, SUNNY

Since slipping out of Pearl Harbor late yesterday morning, we have enjoyed smooth sailing. The men are using every opportunity to add to their already fine tans. There is a happy atmosphere throughout the ship—one that becomes more noticeable with each hour that passes. Much leisure time is devoted to good old-fashioned chin-wagging sessions in which experiences of the past half-year are related over and over again.

Of the many stories one hears about the Sioux's Korean service, there is one that always brings a laugh. The ship was at her Japanese base and a request was sent to H.M.S. Ladybird—a British supply and depot ship—asking for ten gallons of white gasoline. It was needed for refilling blowtorches.

DID BEST

There must have been wondering aboard the British ship. If the Sioux's request had been for "petrol" everything would have been all right. The British fellows, however, did their best. They sent over ten pounds of white vaseline. The Sioux didn't have the heart to return it. The next order was for petrol.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30 (AP).—The New York and New Orleans Cotton Exchanges suspended trading again today while awaiting clarification of the Federal price-freeze order. There was no trading yesterday.

Government Calls for Emergency Measures

OTTAWA, Jan. 30 (CP).—The Government told Parliament today the world crisis had brought an emergency to Canada requiring introduction of unprecedented peacetime measures to arm the country, to aid allies and to control the economy.

The Speech from the Throne, voice of Cabinet policy, launched the fourth session of the 21st Parliament in an atmosphere of urgency.

It said China's intervention in Korea had increased the danger of world war, and it indicated the Cabinet's intention to declare an emergency and to seek the powers considered necessary to meet that emergency.

The Speech, read by Viscount Alexander, Governor-General, gave notice that members would be asked to authorize dispatch of military units to Europe, to arm the Cabinet with greater powers to boost defence production under a new department; to boost defence spending and aid to Asia; to broaden powers to oust persons not loyal to Canada.

HIGHLIGHTS

International Situation: There has been "a further deterioration" since the Autumn session and China's "intervention in active opposition to the U.N. forces in Korea has increased the danger of a general conflagration."

The only hope of saving freedom was in "the rapid increase of the combined strength of the free nations."

Emergency: An emergency situation has been created by this world situation and the magnitude of the defence effort required to meet it. As a result, legislation is coming that will give the Cabinet new powers to ensure adequate defence preparations to meet the emergency and to prevent economic dislocation.

Forces: Early in the session authority will be sought to authorize Canadian participation in General Dwight D. Eisenhower's European Atlantic-Pact command. Substantially-increased defence expenditures—reported to run beyond $1,500,000,000—are coming.

Production: A bill to establish a department of defence production will be introduced, to act as procurement agency for the forces and for Canada's allies.

Asia: The free nations should make it abundantly clear they have no aggressive intentions "and that they are resolved to aid in constructive endeavors to improve the standard [illegible] developed countries."

St. Lawrence Seaway: The urgent need of this navigation-power project "is becoming increasingly apparent" and Canadian authorities should be kept in a position to cooperate promptly once the United States gives approval.

Veterans: The Veterans' Charter will be applied to the Special Force and amendments will be sought to legislation concerning pensions for veterans and their dependents to "relieve difficulties being experienced by certain groups of pensioners."

Citizenship: The Citizenship Act will be amended "to prevent retention of Canadian citizenship by persons who have renounced their allegiance or shown they are not loyal to Canada."

Oddities

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (INS)—The Government conceded today that you can collect a fat refund by filing a phoney income tax return but warned there's a hitch involved—you'll go to jail.

Agents for the Internal Revenue Bureau said the dodge is possible because the Government mails out refund checks to taxpayers before checking them against the withholding tax records of employers.

By forging a withholding statement and claiming enough deductions, you will probably get a refund check mailed to you by the Government.

It had better be spent while you've got the chance, the bureau grimly warns. Almost everyone who's tried the stunt has wound up behind bars.

Friends Pull Youth to Safety After Fall Through Lake Ice

Nelson Crisp, 18, 2465 Cadboro Bay Road, knows the feeling experienced by the six boys who narrowly escaped drowning Sunday in Beacon Hill Park's Goodacre Lake.

On Saturday, the teen-ager had a similar experience at Spectacle Lake on the Malahat. He owes his life to his four chums, Roy Derry, 19, H.M.C.S. Naden; Thomas Rimmer, 18, 1776 Beach Drive; John Rainey, 20, 667 St. Patrick Street and William Beatty, 18, 2260 Central Avenue.

The incident was not reported until yesterday.

The boys were playing hockey when Crisp fell through the ice in the deep lake. Thinking quickly, Derry immediately organized the rest of the skaters and carried a long branch out onto the ice. All lying on their stomachs, the boys managed to haul the exhausted Crisp to safety.

Walking back to their car, Crisp's clothes froze stiff. They were removed in the car, and the car's seat covers were torn off to make blankets.

"I'll never forget seeing that ice over my head," Crisp said yesterday. "I'm really thankful to my pals."

TO HELP GREET SIOUX

Alderman Waldo Skillings yesterday asked council if it was the city's intention to extend an official welcome to the destroyer H.M.C.S. Sioux on its arrival in Esquimalt next Sunday.

Mayor Percy George stated the city should be represented when the ship arrives from war service in Korea.

Council voted that the city should be represented in the welcoming party as the ship reaches port.

ACCIDENT

About $200 damage was caused in a car-truck collision Monday night at the intersection of the Island Highway and Kilsinbury Lane, according to the R.C.M.P. highway patrol.

A car driven by William J. Petrie, Saseenos Road, Sooke, was in collision with a truck driven by Charles Edward Price, 128 Lawrence Street, police said. The truck was loaded with six head of cattle.

WARNING

City police have been instructed to crack down on fuel dealers making deliveries at illegal hours.

A by-law states that the delivery of fuel to private residences is not permitted before 7 a.m. or after 9 p.m. on each week day. Delivery to licensed woodyards, however, is allowed at any time on any week day.

RESOLUTION RESCINDED

Council yesterday approved a finance committee which wiped from the books a 1947 resolution of council setting the price for sale of city-owned lots at 100 per cent of assessed value in the case of commercial property and 75 per cent of assessed value in the case of residential property.

The committee stated the resolution was not in keeping with market values.

WANTS SMALL CARS

Alderman Skillings told council yesterday that with the possibility of gasoline rationing existing in the face of the tense international situation, the city should consider purchase of English-made cars. He said such cars used less gasoline than models made on this continent.

Mayor Percy George said he understood maintenance costs were no lower.

The suggestion was referred to City Manager Cecil Wyatt for report.

Speaker Calls For Vigilance Over Freedom

Fear of alien doctrines may make Canadians forget that they may lose freedom at home because of neglect, T. J. Allard yesterday told a luncheon meeting of the Kiwanis Club.

Mr. Allard, general manager of the Canadian Association of Broad-

Freedom."

"Our twentieth century offers so much to do, to see, to hear, that we may have made it well-nigh impossible for most of us to think, to study and to reflect and thereby made difficult if impossible the sturdy broad base upon which any democracy must ultimately rest," declared Mr. Allard.

"I think it equally fair to point out that the life of the individual is hedged about today with more forms, documents and restrictions than was the case in 1900, and if, in this respect, we have made progress, it is not altogether the type of progress that appeals to the basically democratic mind," he said. "What is perhaps more important is that the individual who once jealously guarded every aspect of his freedom has come to calmly accept the habit of authority, frequently without question, and almost always without resentment."

C.B.C. ILLUSTRATION

Mr. Allard said the framework of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation provided an illustration of the growing habit of acceptance of authority.

The C.B.C., Mr. Allard said, has three distinct functions: It operates its own stations (12 in all) located in or near major population centres; it exercises a complete monopoly on network or chain broadcasting; it writes, interprets and enforces the regulations under which the community stations must operate.

"Thus we have a doubly peculiar position," declared Mr. Allard. "First of all we have permitted and encouraged that degree of diversification of ownership necessary and essential to ensure the smallest possible danger that only one idea or groups of ideas may find expression. At the same time we have permitted a strong and large central organization under centralized control."

Mr. Allard added "We feel the regulation of an industry by its competitor is entirely foreign to the basic concepts of democracy."

Board Blamed By Skillings In Milk Rise

Alderman Waldo Skillings declared in City Council yesterday that the one-man Provincial Milk Board had been "remiss" in not going deeper into operations of distributors and producers before granting the recent two-cent increase in the price of milk.

"The milk increase is entirely unnecessary," he declared. "I understand the increase is going almost entirely to the distributors. In the East the distributors cut out one delivery a week, thereby cutting their costs by one-seventh."

Alderman Skillings said he understood milk producers were now going to press for a further increase for themselves.

NO CHEAPER

He said the milk board should make known why milk is not sold cheaper at the dairy than it is when delivered.

He criticized the milk board for not permitting the city to be heard before the recent increase.

Mayor Percy George said he would like council to send a strong statement to the board making it clear that the city was not satisfied.

The question was referred to the health and welfare committee.

Turnbull to Address Young Liberals' Group

Provincial Minister of Health and Welfare A. D. Turnbull will address Victoria Young Liberals on British Columbia's hospital insurance program at p.m. tomorrow at Liberal Headquarters, 1322A Government Street.

City Takes First Step To Ease Closing By-Law

A BY-LAW was introduced in council yesterday amending the Shops Early Closing By-Law to permit sale of groceries after 6 p.m. on Mondays, Tuesdays, Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays.

Mayor Percy George explained that the by-law was what the people had asked for when they endorsed a referendum last December.

"I thought there would at least be a closing hour," said Alderman Waldo Skillings. "This throws the thing wide open."

The mayor pointed out that there was no closing hour for other classes of stores.

Under terms of the by-law, groceries include "soaps, washing powders, cleaners, detergents, and all foods for the table or house to be taken out of the shop."

Symptoms Misleading

Scarlet Fever Incidence Said Higher Than Usual

Incidence of scarlet fever in the city is still higher than average for this time of year, according to Dr. J. L. Gayton, medical health officer for Victoria and Esquimalt.

He said parents should not be fooled by mild symptoms, since these are often followed by severe complications usually settling in ears or kidneys.

Dr. Gayton stated the type of scarlet fever now breaking out in the city had produced more complications than any he had seen in years. He added this fact emphasized the importance of consulting a doctor. Early treatment cut down on duration of sickness and could reduce danger of complications, he said.

He said parents were legally responsible with doctors for reporting suspected cases of scarlet fever.

In many cases, he said, probable source of the disease had been found in adults, though children and young adults were susceptible.

Nine cases of scarlet fever were reported in the week ended January 27, two in the week ended January 20, and five in the week ended January 13.

Kiwanis Club Considers 1951 Projects

Discussion of worthy projects to be undertaken by the newly formed Victoria North Kiwanis Club occupied members at the weekly dinner meeting last night at the Monterey.

Several projects were suggested and ideas were handed over to committees for further study. Several new members were added to existing committees which are in the midst of formulating plans for the club's initial year.

Committees with chairmen mentioned first are as follows:

Program, music: R. L. McQuarrie, G. R. Banfield, Frank Rowbottom, F. W. Smith.

Civil Servants' Council Plans Regular Meeting

The Victoria Local Council, Amalgamated Civil Servants of Canada, requests a good attendance for its next regular monthly meeting Thursday at 8 p.m.

The meeting will be held in the lower board room of the Naval Veterans' Branch, Canadian Legion.

Prepared to Pay Price

The Federal Government is being asked for "total preparedness" against "defeat and slavery" by the Victoria Public Service, Branch 127, Canadian Legion.

In a wire to Fisheries Minister R. W. Mayhew, the branch said it has re-endorsed the Legion's program of total preparedness, and "prefers to pay for freedom and victory, rather than accept defeat and slavery.

"There is now no honorable alternative," the wire said.

Public Meeting Planned

Women's Clubs' Support Sought for Prices Drive

More than 40 women's organizations will be asked to throw their weight behind the Victoria Joint Committee on Price Controls campaign for price control and continuation of rent curbs.

Representatives from the Victoria Council of Women, which includes the organizations, attended a meeting of the price committee last night and will put the matter up to membership meetings February 7 and 8.

Each V.C.W. affiliate will be asked to send one delegate to a February 9 conference of the committee, whose table officers will then plan for a public meeting.

Representatives of Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council (A.F.L. - T.L.C.), Victoria Labor Council (C.C.L.), Army and Navy Veterans and railway operating and non-operating unions now make up the committee.

The re-imposition of a Federal excess profits tax is also asked by the committee.

Utensils Bow To Armaments

The effects of the United States rearmament program are just beginning to make themselves felt for Victoria consumers.

Already stainless steel copper-bottom ware and corrugated iron products are showing signs of going out of production and will no longer be available when present stocks expire.

This is the opinion of Victoria retail merchants, who say curtailment of stainless steel kitchenware is the result of the U.S. rearmament program.

The same applies to other United States manufactured steel goods, one retailer said.

Retailer says the loss to the public will include the better makes of electric stoves and refrigerators. A price increase for stainless steel products is also expected.

Farm machinery is also expected to be heavily hit.

United Nations Backs U.S. Resolution

For better or worse, the United Nations voted through its political committee sitting into the early hours of this morning to declare Communist China an aggressor in Korea. This action came after the piecemeal defeat of the Arab-Asian proposal which clung to mediation as the chief hope of success in a world come perilously close to war. It followed an insistent drive by the United States to have Communist China labeled the aggressor in Korea by reason of their aggressive defiance on United Nations requests to "cease fire." Canada sided with the United States at the showdown. The "aggressor" motion passed by 44 votes to 7, with 7 nations abstaining. Thus the United Nations was upheld "in principle." It remains to be seen, however, if principle will have any effect on the serious turn of events in the Far East, and with what steps the United Nations can back it up.

Facing Up at Last to Civil Defence

Mr. Claxton was showing more realism than he displayed on his visit to the Pacific Coast when he told a civil defence forum in Quebec that Canada must face "the very real probability" of coming under air attack in any wholesale war. It was "a new concept for Canada," he added, which might explain some of the laxity hitherto associated with civil defence planning. What can be new about such a concept will nevertheless surprise the average thinking person.

When the Defence Minister was here he implied that this coast scarcely needed protection since it was not a likely target. Speaking this week at about the same time as Mr. Claxton, and also to a civil defence gathering, Education Minister Straith listed half-a-dozen possible targets on the British Columbia Coast, including this area. No one can be sure where an attack would eventuate, but obviously Mr. Straith's point of view seems much the wiser one to adopt.

Mr. Claxton was correct when he pointed out that North America cannot be made impregnable from air assault. No country can nowadays, so that it behooves a nation to make every effort to lessen the damage that any such attack could cause. This is what makes civil defence such a vital problem, although it is only of recent weeks that its importance seems to have been officially grasped. There is a welcome interest now being taken in pushing preparations for civilian protection. These may never be needed here, and one hopes they never will. A community cannot rest content with hope, however. The best form of insurance is contained in the motto of the Boy Scouts —Be Prepared.

Timber Can Be Worth More Than Sawn Boards

VICTORIA has every reason to be concerned over reports that for the sake of $150,000 worth of timber a large part of the beautiful eastern slope of Saanich Inlet is to be denuded of trees and turned into a barren waste of rocks and stumps. The scenic reputation of the Malahat is built on the magnificent panorama it affords of virgin timber framing landlocked waters of unsurpassed beauty, all within a few short miles of the capital of the province. There is probably no more widely photographed view on this continent. As much a joy to Island residents as it is to tourists, it is depicted on almost every travel folder, and each year many thousands of visitors journey to the Summit to behold it.

No ricks of sawn lumber are worth the price of turning any part of the picture from the Malahat Drive into the kind of eyesore logging operations leave behind. Even under second growth the hillside never could look the same again, and many years would pass before nature could spread a cloak of green thick enough to mask the denudation.

It may be true, as Lands and Forests Minister Kenney has pointed out, that the Provincial Government could not afford to accede to every request to prevent the logging of privately-owned lands in scenic areas. There are 25,000 miles of highways in British Columbia, and if the Government were to buy up all the timberland within view of them there would be little money left in the treasury for anything else. This is an exceptional case, however, and surely something could be attempted to avert such shortsighted destruction. From the materialistic viewpoint alone, the tourist business the Malahat Drive attracts is worth far more to the province than the value of the timber now threatened with the axe.

Arena Agreement Should Prove Helpful

BY its action last evening on Arena financing the City Council clarified a subject upon which there had been much speculation. The suggested agreement between the City and Arena Commission whereby the Corporation would have the first $25,000 of operating profit annually, and leave the remainder in the hands of the Commission for necessary improvements to plant and equipment, is a nice balance between what is theoretical and what is practicable. Certainly the Arena would never pay if loaded with the full carrying charges of the construction debt in excess of $1,000,000 in its first years. The linking of the remaining surplus to Arena commitments will retain incentive and give the Commission a better indication of the outlook for the future.

Nobody can expect that this $25,000 yearly will meet the carrying charges on the Arena bonds at first, but over a period of years well within the life and usefulness of the structure it can well do so. Also, not even the City Council can expect that the Arena Commission, if faced with a genuine necessity, must come to a standstill within this budget. The City built the Arena, and cannot turn its back on it. For the present, however, the announced proposal seems like an honest attempt to deal fairly with the issue for the good of all concerned. It can be amended if time shows the need.

LOGGING AND FLOODS

Sir,—The floods on Vancouver Island point a warning to a situation that is viewed all too complacently by the Government and by industry. Before highline logging operations destroyed our forests these floods did not occur. Ask the local farmers.

The sequence of events now well on the way is briefly as follows. The logging technique peculiar to this continent only destroys the forest. Next, years of heavy rain gradually erode away what is left of the humus after the "burn." Then the subsoil goes and the forest never recovers.

This stage is now in action around Duncan, (see the color of Cowichan Bay water).

The ultimate result, bare rocks, choked rivers, high eroding winds and a change for the worse in climate.

The remedy: Selective logging under government supervision as practised in Burma, Siam, Scandinavia, etc.

In Sweden the same tracts of forest have been cropped for hundreds of years by an intelligent people.

K. R. H. ROBERTS.

406 Madrona Drive, R.R. 1, Sidney, B.C.

PRODUCE MARKETING

Sir,—Vancouver Island growers do not like things as they are at present under the Coast Marketing Board's orders.

It is possible that a scheme can be drawn up which would have the board's approval; one over which it would have no control, work to do, or financial help to supply, and under which nothing would be paid to it.

Personally, I think Vancouver Island growers would get much better net returns, and that the Coast Board would raise no objections, as it would be saved work and expense.

One suggested scheme is to have local directors paid per board meeting, a salaried secretary-manager enforcement officer, agencies somewhat as at present but to handle Island-grown produce only; they to sell and deliver to retailers, bulk consumers such as ships, restaurants, fish and chips, etc., and make one-sack cash sales at the agencies.

Revenue: License retailers, as in the past, also wholesalers. Tag money, say 5% of price of produce sold. Growers' registration fees. Total, $9,000 or more per annum.

No pooling. Growers shipping to distant markets to pay transport.

Generally, V.I. produce is of better quality than that of the Lower Mainland. Distributors like it better. Higher prices could and should be obtained.

The directors should study how to reduce the spread between producer and consumer, not increase it as the present board is doing.

GEORGE HOWLAND.

R.R. 1, Ladysmith, B.C.

A January Morning

The glittering roofs are still with frost; each worn
Black chimney builds into the quiet sky
Its curling pile to crumble silently.
Far out to westward, on the edge of morn,
The slender misty city towers up-borne
Glimmer faint rose against the pallid blue:
And yonder on the northern hills, the hue
Of amethyst, hang fleeces dull as horn.
And here behind me come the woodmen's
sleighs
With shouts and clamorous squeakings, night
and morn
Up the steep slope the horses stamp and strain,
Urged on by hoarse-tongued drivers—cheeks
ablaze,
Iced beards and frozen eyelids—team by team,
With frost-fringed flanks, and nostrils jetting
steam.

Thinking Aloud

". . . of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

A LOCAL clergyman says he would like to know what control advertisers have on news reports in the press, and how much pressure they bring to bear on editorial departments.

If he finds out I hope he tells me. I'd like to know too.

I'm always hearing about these sinister blokes who are supposed to dominate, among others, me. And it's annoying not to be able to lay hands on them. I've looked in every nook and corner of the Old Lady's Broad Street rabbit warren, but nary a trace can I find of the villains.

And that's disappointing.

Of course I know that outsiders always know your business better than you do, but still it would be nice to be let into the secret too. It's no fun being unaware of the influence that, allegedly, corrupts your pen—or typewriter.

And if some johnny's standing over me with a big stick I would fain have a look at him.

The way some people talk you'd think an advertiser was committing a sin when he becomes an advertiser. And that a newspaper was conniving at the sin by carrying his ad.

Whereas, as a ten-year-old might know, newspapers have to have advertisements, just as churches have to have donations put in the plate. Neither could exist without these means of support.

A newspaper, granted, doesn't go out of its way to malign its advertisers, although for some mysterious reason some people appear to think they should. But newspapers don't go out of their way to malign anyone.

Is that wrong?

A parson wouldn't stand up in his pulpit, just for the devil of it, and berate the individuals who prop it up financially. Why should a newspaper?

As for advertisers controlling the news reports of the press—well if this is so it will certainly be news to the newspapermen who write these reports.

If the critics only knew—about newspapermen.

Why, the hair rises on the neck of every editorial man at the least sign of pressure, from anyone. The surest way to invite his ire is to suggest that he MUST do anything.

Newspapermen are fair game, of course. A subscription to a newspaper entitles the holder to abuse its producers to his heart's content. Or at least some subscribers seem to think it does. They would never dream of suspecting the motives of their butcher or baker, but a newspaperman!

Every now and then, for example, a letter-writer tells this column he knows I only write what I'm told to write, and that I have a list of topics that are taboo.

It's useless, I suppose, saying that correspondents of this type are chumps, and talking utter nonsense.

It's useless too, I daresay, to affirm that newspapermen may have as high a sense of integrity as—yes, as a clergyman. And it will be useless to say there's no advertising gestapo passing on news stories to be printed.

The local clergyman asks his question because if the advertiser rules the roost he wonders what a person can believe in the press. Sometimes I've wondered about the validity of some things I hear from pulpits, but hitherto I've kept my wonder to myself.

I fancy you can believe pretty well what you read in the press; the chaps who write news stories are decent fellows, as decent as you'll find anywhere, in fact.

Of course I'm a newspaperman and so I'll be biased. I am too, but it strikes me it's a good job somebody is.

Peiping and the U.N. Proposals

By W. N. EWER

LONDON. — The rejection by the Chinese People's Government of United Nations proposals for a Korean settlement is surprising only to the very optimistic. If they had been accepted in Peiping as a basis of negotiation, bloodshed and destruction would have ceased; every Far Eastern question would have been discussed in a civilised fashion, and the Chinese Government would have had good reason to hope for the peaceful securing of its objectives. For it presumably thinks that it has a good case over Formosa and admission to the U.N. There was already considerable support for that case. An evident readiness to end the inhumanity of the Korean war would have vastly strengthened that support and have weakened the opposition.

Here, then, was an opportunity which Peiping could have seized with both hands had it wished for settlement. The United Nations had gone a long way—even, as some think, to the straining of principle—in an effort for peace. It had shelved the idea of declaring China guilty of aggression. It had dropped the idea of calling for the unilateral withdrawal of Chinese forces and the cessation of assistance to the North Koreans. This was not easy. It stirred thoughts and invited charges of "appeasement" and for those of us who worked in the 30's the word is disturbingly reminiscent.

But the risk was run. An offer was made. The "principles" laid down by a committee of three and endorsed by the Assembly are, so far as Korea is concerned, virtually what the Chinese themselves have been ostensibly proposing—the withdrawal of all foreign forces and a free choice by the Koreans of their own system of government. Waiving all issues of dignity, prestige and legality, the United Nations for the sake of peace has agreed to place its own forces and the Chinese "volunteers" on an equal footing. That is a tremendous—many will think an unwise—concession. It goes to the very margin of possibility. It is the acid test of sincerity, of the desire for peace.

But it was rejected. Rejected in the most discourteous manner possible—not in the first place in a dispatch to Lake Success, but in a broadcast from Peiping. The deduction is inescapable. Be the reasons what they may, Peiping wishes not cessation but continuance of hostilities.

That is one thing which the reply makes obvious. It produces counter proposals. A seven-power conference instead of one "including the Four Powers"—India, France and Egypt having been hastily added after a hurried and would-be cunning look at the last few days' news; the admission of "Peiping" to the U.N.; the American withdrawal from Formosa, and so on—everything agreed and accepted in advance before any conference meets.

But the kernel of the whole thing is this: That all this is to happen before there is any cease-fire in Korea. That condition betrays the whole purpose, for it is an impossible condition. The suggestion that the Chinese forces and the United Nations' forces are to withdraw simultaneously from Korea, but that while they are doing so they are to continue fighting each other, belongs to the stratosphere of lunacy. It is the final, complete reductio ad absurdum of the whole Peiping proposal.

That is the decisive clause of the reply. It can only have one meaning; the counter-proposal was not seriously intended for it does not make sense. It had been rapidly and rather carelessly scrambled together as somebody may seize ill-assorted clothes in which to meet an unexpected guest. For—as one may judge from Mr. Malik's evident embarrassment—this particular guest was very much unexpected.

But under the hastily grabbed and somewhat ridiculous garments the naked fact is there—the Government of the People's Republic of China has at present no intention of ceasing hostilities in Korea. That is the stark fact from which we all now have to make logical deductions.

Truck Damage to Highways

(From The Winnipeg Tribune)

CHARGES that heavy transport trucks are the cause of a great deal of damage to highways have been heard with increasing frequency in the United States and Canada during the past few years. A number of states have been considering levying special taxes on truckers to compensate for the extra wear and tear on the roads.

An interesting experiment has been going on in the State of Maryland which will undoubtedly affect the future of truckers both in Canada and the United States. The purpose of this experiment, according to The New York Times, was to determine scientifically the effect of heavy carriers on highway paving.

A special stretch of roadway, a mile and a tenth long, was selected. Eight trucks carrying axle loads of from 18,000 to 44,800 pounds were operated day and night over the test strip which had been divided into four sections. Two trucks were assigned to each section—two carrying 18,000-pound single axle loads, two 22,400 single axle loads, two 32,000 on tandem axle and two with 44,800 on tandem axle. The test went on from July until Christmas.

The tests as far as the heaviest of the trucks were concerned ended in October. The engineers stopped the test then because they said the heavy trucks had pounded the pavement so hard that a halt was necessary in order to save pieces for study. Apparently the damage to the roadway increases far out of proportion to the increase in loads. It was found, for example, that the 44,800-pound trucks caused eleven times as much lineal cracking as the 32,000-pound trucks. The 22,400-pound trucks caused six times as much cracking (lineal feet) as did the 18,000-pound trucks.

The results of the test are now being studied by traffic and road authorities. The truckers have long asserted that their vehicles do not unduly damage roads and that they are already paying their fair share of upkeep and maintenance. The $250,000 test is expected to go a long way toward settling the argument, as far as road authorities are concerned. The outlook seems to be that heavy highway trucks will be subjected to new taxes in several states.

Fun, Fact and Fiction

Incidental intelligence: Lloyds of London, which offers long odds there will be no war this year, has offices 50 feet below the street which it can use, if necessary.

SPELLING

It is hard to understand why "harass" should have only one "r" while "embarrass" has two. "Britain" is spelled with one "t" but "Brittany" is spelled with two. If you add "ed" to the word "pot," you are told to add another "t" and spell it "potted." But if you do the same thing with the word "limit," the blue pencil strikes. If you find it possible to "manage" something it becomes "manageable," but if you find something can be reduced, it is "reducible." Where has that "e" gone to? That is why a reporter's spelling is unmanageable, and a city editor is reducible to tears.

—Montreal Star.

Two Americans are riding a streetcar in The Hague. "How much is a ticket here?" one of them asks.

"I dunno," says the other, "but it's so little anyway, it really doesn't matter whether you pay or not."

Observation Car

By G. B.

"SOME day there will be a universal language to create better understanding between the many nations of the world," a friend remarked to the Keating Squire. "Right now, money is the only thing that speaks in all languages," the squire replied. . . . A young man who dropped into the shop for a haircut bored Bill, the Broad Street barber, with a long tale of unhappiness during a brief three years of married life. "I guess marriage is just a lottery," he complained. Bill, who has enjoyed a long and happy married life, retorted: "So marriage is just a lottery? What is the matter? Did you draw a poor prize?" . . . Barber Ben generally likes to drive his automobile at the maximum speed rate, and even faster when he encounters 50-mile zones in the country. One day last week while he and his wife were proceeding to a picture show, Ben suddenly slowed down to 20 miles an hour for some unaccountable reason. "Ben! You must have something on your mind besides driving, or we would not be going along so slowly and safely," his wife exclaimed. . . . "Greetings. I desire six ten-cent cigars," a friend said to Tobacconist Martin. "Here you are. Your desire will soon go up in smoke," Martin chuckled. . . . An advertisement in a London newspaper for a new atlas stated: "It lays the world handsomely before you." There are many parts of the globe that are far from handsome. . . . An Ontario Supreme Court justice hit the nail on the head when he observed: "Absence of self-discipline is a direct cause of the lawlessness among Canadian youth. Once a person respects and appreciates the rights of others, he arrives at self-discipline." . . . Old Dobbin had his faults, but he did not skid off the road and turn turtle when he applied his brakes.

Looking Back

Through Colonist Files

25 YEARS AGO — The Police Commission intends to take action against motorists who do not obey the regulation requiring rear lights to be shown on stationary vehicles at night.

50 YEARS AGO—The U.S. cutter Grant, with a Victoria navigator on board, sailed for the West Coast to search for wreckage of many ships unheard of since the severe storms early in the Winter.

85 YEARS AGO — A panther measuring nine feet in length was killed by a hunter in South Saanich on Wednesday night while the beas was feeding on a deer it had killed.

Mrs. Bremner Re-Elected Head of King's Daughters

Mrs. William Bremner was re-elected president of the Victoria District, King's Daughters, at the annual meeting held last night in the clubrooms, Douglas Street.

In her annual report, Mrs. Bremner stated that there are 71 members, with a total of eight new members welcomed during 1950.

The six circles raised $836.23 during the past year, largely through teas, bazaars and rummage sales. More than $570 was given to various charitable organizations. In conclusion, Mrs. Bremner paid special tribute to several of the older members who had served faithfully in the lunchrooms.

Other officers elected are: Mrs. W. H. Cliff, vice-president; Mrs. G. H. Gilman, secretary (temporary); Mrs. M. O'B. Tod, treasurer; Miss Sadie Thorburn, rooms treasurer; Mrs. A. McFarlane and Mrs. Bremner, provincial executive; Mrs. A. M. Perry, Miss M. A. Witmer, Miss J. G. Roberts and Mrs. Bremner, Local Council of Women delegates.

A report from Miss Thorburn showed that 7,239 people had patronized the lunchrooms which were open 276 days.

Treasurer's report, submitted by Mrs. Tod, showed $297.23 in receipts and $198.83 in disbursements.

The following women submitted reports from their circles: Mrs. R. Graham, fellowship; Miss B. Morley, ministering; Mrs. L. Whyte, Hawthorne; Mrs. R. B. Elliott, Ready-to-Help; Mrs. T. Ackerman, Speedwell and Goodwill Junior.

The League of Roses (Lancs. and Yorks.) will hold a grand concert at Prince Robert House on February 20. Many well-known artists will take part. A social evening with court whist, games and refreshments, will be held Thursday evening in the Orange Hall.

I.O.D.E. Reception Honors Mrs. Wallace

Pictured at the reception given by I.O.D.E. chapters in honor of Mrs. Clarence Wallace, honorary president of the Provincial Chapter, held yesterday afternoon in the Lower Lounge of the Empress Hotel, from left to right: Miss Ruth MacLean; Mrs. C. L. Bishop, regent of Municipal Chapter; Mrs. Wallace; Mrs. H. D. Parizeau, convener of the reception, and Mrs. F. Lucas, Municipal standard-bearer.

Red, White and Blue Motif Carried Out in Decorations

Mrs. Clarence Wallace, wife of the Lieutenant-Governor, and honorary president of the Provincial Chapter of the Imperial Order, Daughters of the Empire, was honored by I.O.D.E. chapters in Victoria at a reception held in the Lower Lounge of the Empress Hotel yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Wallace, who was attended by Miss Ruth MacLean, was received by Mrs. C. L. Bishop, Municipal regent, and Mrs. H. D. Parizeau, convener in charge of arrangements. Standard-bearers of the local chapters formed a guard of honor at the door. Miss Beryl Harmeson, regent of the Thunderbird Chapter, presented a corsage of gardenias to Mrs. Wallace.

After the members were presented to Mrs. Wallace tea was served from a long table set in the centre of the room. Table decorations were in the I.O.D.E. colors, red, white and blue candles and a large bowl filled with tulips, hyacinths and iris. Plum blossom and daffodils were placed throughout the lounge.

Regents of the Victoria chapters who presided at the urns included Mrs. A. Mainprize, Mrs. A. Chisholm, Mrs. F. Parsons, Mrs. W. R. Roskelley, Mrs. D. W. Carter, Mrs. Daryl Elford, Mrs. Theo Clarke, Mrs. H. D. Parizeau, Mrs. H. A. Richmond, Mrs. F. R. Ritchie, Mrs. J. C. F. Blowey, Mrs. G. Clarke.

Assisting with the serving were Mrs. W. N. Lenfesty, Mrs. E. Lowthian, Mrs. P. D. Dutot, Mrs. Alex McLure, Mrs. Thomas G. Clarke, Mrs. J. Bryant, Mrs. A. M. McAlister, Mrs. R. J. Clarke, Mrs. J. W. Van Norman, Mrs. Mawdsley, Mrs. Shaw and Miss Pitts.

Modern Newspapers Lack Art Says Canadian Club Speaker

Lack of art was described by Mr. Stuart Keate as the major fault of newspapers, when he spoke yesterday afternoon before the Women's Canadian Club at the Empress Hotel.

Mr. Keate's subject was "History in a Hurry—News."

"Journalism is like the nouveau riche, not yet considered respectable as a profession, but the story of man has hardly begun to be told and we are just at the dawn of our history. Man will learn the law of the universe, to express himself and to communicate with his fellows," the speaker declared.

Television and radio, two mediums which present news almost as soon as it happens, have made it necessary for newspapers to find a new approach to interest the reader. Papers today present more of the "why" or interpretive side of the news, rather than the "who" and "when," stated Mr. Keate.

FACTS NOT ENOUGH

"No paper is ever perfect," said the publisher of The Victoria Daily Times, "and deadlines, or lack of time, are the greatest enemy of newspapers, which are produced by human beings and therefore, will always contain mistakes."

Facts are no longer enough, Mr. Keate observed, it is what facts are and how they are presented that count. He outlined three pitfalls—bias, misrepresentation and irresponsibility—which papers cannot always successfully avoid. "Everyone has opinions and prejudices, therefore the objective presentation of news is impossible."

Defending newspapers in the case of misrepresentation, the speaker pointed out that often all the facts are not available or else the facts are, unintentionally, improperly assembled to give the wrong impression.

Mr. Keate, who has written for The Vancouver Daily Province, Time, Life, Maclean's and other internationally-circulated publications, compared Canadian papers favorably with their British and American counterparts.

His criticism of Canadian reporters—"They are too darn polite."

Urges Understanding Of Other Countries

Rev. Arthur Dayfoot, who has recently returned from missionary service in China, addressed the opening of the 35th annual meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of the United Church of Canada held last evening in Metropolitan United Church.

Mr. Dayfoot urged his audience to turn their thoughts and prayers to the non-Christian world, namely Asia and Africa. "Let us inform ourselves and get the facts about these people so that we may at least understand their viewpoint, even if we do not agree with it," he said.

"Then let us ask ourselves if we love our neighbors as ourselves, as there is no question that today the whole world are neighbors." Mr. Dayfoot said he did not think that the Christian world has yet found what neighborliness means.

"Perhaps I should not stress the non-Christian world in speaking of these countries," Mr Dayfoot said, explaining that in the so-called Christian countries, earnest Christians were still very much in the minority.

In the underprivileged countries, speaking economically, Mr. Dayfoot stated that there were long traditions of civilization but that the people were looking for something better. They are looking for something better in religion and are open for the appeal of the Gospel or truth. The new political doctrines with promisese of a better way of life were catching the interest of the people because of this attitude.

"The first thing in our hearts and purpose should be to share the most precious thing we have—the Christian Gospel, and the only way we can keep it is to share it," he added.

The importance of missionary work in Japan was a tremendous challenge, Mr. Dayfoot also stressed. He said the opportunity and need for more missionaries there was great.

Rev. Dr. A. E. Whitehouse presided at the meeting and gave the devotional. Mrs. W. F. Perry, president of the W.M.S., brought greetings and made the announcements. Mrs. W. H. Muncy gave the literature news.

Mrs. C. C. Wyatt entertained with a solo and Mr. Edgar Holloway played the organ music.

Quiet Rites At St. John's

A quiet ceremony Saturday noon at St. John's Anglican Church had as principals Ruth Mary, daughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. C. A. Boyd of Shawnigan Lake and Anthony Weisgarber, second son of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Weisgarber of Sea Island, formerly of Regina, Sask.

Canon G. Biddle conducted the ceremony.

The bride wore a navy blue gabardine suit with grey topcoat and grey accessories. Her corsage was of [illegible]

Mr. and Mrs. T. Saunders attended the bridal couple. Mrs. Saunders chose a blue wool suit with grey accessories and corsage of yellow roses.

Following a honeymoon on the Mainland, Mr. and Mrs. Weisgarber will live on Fort Street.

Processing seaweed into cattle feed and fertilizer is a thriving industry in Ireland.

"NOW . . . YOU LISTEN TO ME"

For 7 a.m., we set the alarm, just beyond reach, of the G.F.'s arm. It's a noisy contraption, makes such a roar, that I usually bury it in a drawer. Stuffed in deep, amidst my shirts, then cover it over with her skirts. Like the other nite, I used her plaid, which made her awful good & mad. 'Cause when it went off, deep in it's bin, I couldn't remember, which drawer it was in. She was groggy, her all-time low, she yanked a drawer, it fell on her toe. She let out a scream, grabbed her feet, off my face I brushed the sheet. "Hurt yourself, dear, does it pain, oh . . . I'm sorry . . . what a d . . . shame." "I don't need your pity," she flung each arm, "just tell me where . . . is that fool alarm?" Which still was ringing, giving all it had, banging it's bell, deep in the plaid. "Try the next drawer, that one below," she was weaving now . . . to & fro. "Oh, my foot," she was groaning & strokin', see if you think, if it is broken??" The clock weakened & then it quit, she went below . . . her words I'll omit.

But I CAN'T OMIT, these cold weather cheaters, the now famous QUAKER . . oil space-heaters. 3 sizes we have for a mansion or hut, a fine piece of furniture, in warm walnut. I flopped back, felt like a snake, as she was wrestling, the breakfast to make. I scratched my tummy, then my arm did stray, I reached out, tuned CKDA. The "Tennesse Waltz" filled the air, from the "Westinghouse" portable beside me there. I liked the music, the sad little rhyme, the announcer came in, to tell me the time. And then in the midst of my waking-slumber, "get up," he said, "Mr. Maurice Humber." WAS I AWAKE, & to what degree, & was this fellow . . . meaning ME?? I bolted upright & shook my head, then did exactly . . . as he had said. At least in my slippers, I fumbled each peg, "C'MON," he insisted, "shake a leg." "That's it . . . my boy, now uuuPPP you get, O.K. . . . now your all set." "Humph." I reflected, & to myself I sed, "that's the first time, I've got outa bed. Yanked by a man 'neath the Douglas Grill, my "Early-Bird" friend . . . Mr. Dave Hill. And he wasn't content, to just make me wince, he did it this morning, & ever since. So now, no matter, HOW the G.F. screams, till Dave insists, I stay with my dreams. Then I get up, & leisurely shave, as into the bathroom . . . I carry Dave. I look for my cream, midst the bath-salts, then stroke my face to his Tennesse Waltz. If I cut myself, & smear with the salve, Dave keeps telling the time I have, I talk back, as the stuff, I shelve, before I rub with the "Aqua-Velva." I size up the bottle, it's nearly all gone, "O.K. Dave . . . keep your shirt on. I'm right on time, thanks to you, excuse me there, while I lace my shoe." Then I go down, to the breakfast table, "she" is hobbling, as best she is able. "Just WHO," sed this head of our domocile, is running this joint . . . ME OR DAVE HILL????"

Burnside Drive-In Theatre Now Under Construction

WORK has been started on the $150,000 landscaped open-air drive-in theatre at Burnside and Tillicum Roads. Owners are B. M. and M. W. Checkik. The theatre will accommodate 758 cars, each of which will be equipped with a car speaker. There will be seating capacity for about 400 people inside and outside the partially-covered theatre for those who do not have cars.

Excavation for the parking lot is nearly completed and the theatre is expected to open May 1.

The picture screen will be 56 by 41 feet.

Three Crews Suggested

Central Saanich Decides On Volunteer Brigade

Apparently considering Saanich's charge of $12,000 for fire protection too high, Central Saanich Council last night took steps to form a volunteer fire brigade.

A call will be sent out for volunteers, and training is expected to start almost immediately. Sidney Fire Chief G. A. Gardner has offered to provide all the preliminary training for the crews.

Reeve Sidney Pickles suggested that crews be formed in Saanichton, Keating and Brentwood.

Council also decided to ask the R.C.M.P. to provide permanent protection.

ASKS REMOVAL

W. G. Warren, who said he was a "substantial taxpayer," and Lionel Taylor, each one-man delegations, supported Reeve Pickles' suggestion that an independent firm of appraisers be engaged to carry out appraisals for the Saanich apportionment board. Mr. Warren demanded the council to ask for the independent appraisal.

The delegate also asked that Councillor Lorne Thomson retire from the apportionment board "for obvious reasons." No action was taken on the request.

APPLICATIONS

A number of letters were received from persons seeking employment as municipal engineer and fire chief. Several persons offered property for sale to the municipality.

RESOLUTION SUFFICIENT

Reeve Pickles informed the council it was not necessary to present a referendum to obtain Victoria Public Library services for the municipality. A council resolution is adequate, he said.

He pointed out that every resident has access to the services of the Provincial Library in the meantime.

BY-LAWS

Council will hold a committee meeting today to discuss 16 by-laws before final presentation to the council. They include by-laws regulating blasting, streets, traffic, animals, fire protection, oil burners, electrical work, advance tax payments, penalties and prevention of soil removal.

R. P. Blandy, municipal adviser, submitted a report explaining by-laws in general.

Next meeting of the council will be next Tuesday.

Decision Reserved In Murder Appeal

Judgment was reserved yesterday by the Court of Appeal in the appeal of Joseph Arthur Ouilette, convicted of the murder of a Chinese market gardener, Lee On, and sentenced to hang last November by Mr. Justice J. M. Coady.

Eric Brown of Vancouver appeared as counsel for Ouilette.

Harold McInnes, K.C., appeared for the Crown.

Judgment in the appeal will be handed down before the end of the current Victoria sitting of the court, counsel were informed.

Victoria Could Be Front Line in War Forrest Shaw Warns Public Meeting

Victoria may be in the front line if Canada is faced with another war, Forrest L. Shaw warned a public meeting at the Esquimalt Branch of the Canadian Legion last night.

"We were lucky in the last two wars that the enemy gave us a breathing spell to organize our defences," he said, "but it won't happen again. It is quite possible for an enemy to knock us out in the first round—there will be no warning."

The meeting was called by the Legion to acquaint the public with the lack of defence preparedness on the West Coast and is part of a campaign for some form of compulsory training in the reserve forces.

SOUNDS WARNING

Mr. Shaw warned that the armed forces must be built up immediately before it was too late.

"It will be a jolt to our economy," he said, "but it will be a bigger jolt if we are not ready."

He said the Federal Government was far too slow in taking any action and that it only went as fast as public opinion directed it.

Mr. Shaw warned of the danger if the need arose for mass evacuation of this city in the event of a bombing attack.

"There is only one road out of Victoria and if you tried to evacuate people who were prompted by fear, it couldn't be done," he declared.

CITES AIR SHOW

He cited as an example the air show at Patricia Bay Airport two years ago when the highway was jammed with cars bumper to bumper for miles.

"It took me two hours to get there so you can imagine what it would be like if the whole city wanted to get out," he said.

He deplored the lack of defence for this city.

"It doesn't matter if you have Victoria bristling with guns. If you don't have anyone to man them they are useless," the war veteran declared.

Lt.-Col. W. J. Farnsworth, commanding officer of the 75th H.A.A. Regiment (Reserve) said his unit was the only reserve anti-aircraft regiment on Vancouver Island that was prepared to engage enemy planes in the event of an air raid.

"We are willing and eager to engage enemy bombers, but the citizens of the community will have to provide the men," he said.

The meeting passed the following resolution:

"Resolved, that the Dominion Government give immediate attention . . . to national registration, mobilization of industry, and compulsory training in the reserve forces as a first and immediate step toward total preparedness."

Opponents Of Free Port Win Debate

Speakers for the negative were victors last night when four Victoria Toastmasters' Clubs joined in a debate at the Labor Hall, 602 Broughton Street, on the question "Should Victoria Contain and Be in a Free Port Area?"

Percy Rayment of Toastmasters Club No. 331 and Lloyd Smith of Club No. 38 were defeated by John Archer of Club No. 396 and William Thorpe of Camosun Club No. 757.

Mr. Smith said that Victoria had once been a free port back in the days of the Oregon Treaty. Certain territories were granted Great Britain if the United States and other nations of the world could use Victoria as a free port. Mr. Smith said that Victoria would be one of the greatest ports on the Pacific Coast if it became a free port.

Mr. Archer said that being a free port was not Victoria's destiny. The city was geographically unsound as a free port, and the cost would be approximately $2,500,000.

Percy Rayment insisted that trade would come to Victoria if the city became a free port. Raw materials would be brought here and could be manufactured before being sent on to their destinations.

Mr. Thorpe said it wasn't permissible for a free port to be set up and the facilities installed later. It was set down that a port had to have good, existing facilities before the right to operate as a free port was granted.

Elks Best Veterans In Table Tournament

The Elks emerged victor by a 618 to 483 score Monday night against the Army and Navy in a billiard-pool tournament held at the Elks Club, 730 Cormorant Street.

The tournament was arranged by David Crofton, and a return match will be played February 6 at the Army and Navy Clubrooms.

Wanted to Watch Seagulls

Young Survivors of Skating Tragedy Describe Icy Plunge in Pond, Rescue

Snatched from the jaws of death in Beacon Hill Park's Goodacre Lake on Sunday, three of the six rescued youths yesterday found time to tell of some of their fears, thoughts and sensations during the dramatic rescue.

All three are students at St. Louis College.

First account is given by Fernie Nadon, 13, 1048 Collinson Street.

"I was skating around the island, away from the others. I had seen some seagulls land on the pond and noticed how they were sliding on the ice. I tried to get closer to them as I wanted to see them take off. While going towards them, the ice broke under me.

"OVER MY HEAD"

"I went down over my head but did not touch bottom. I did not lose my head, but tried to support myself by holding on to the edge of the ice. The ice would crack off and I'd go under. I'd come up and grab the edge of the ice again. This happened several times. I then saw Clem (my brother) coming to my aid.

"I told him to keep back as I knew the ice would not support him. Clem threw himself on his stomach and began to crawl towards me. Then I went under again. When I came up, Clem was the lead of a human chain. He stretched me his hockey stick, but as soon as I grabbed it, the ice under the boys caved in and they fell into the water.

"Before Clem got to me I had gone under again. When I came up this time, I tried to keep up by holding some loose chunks of ice. I though this would help me as I was afraid that the weight of my water-soaked clothes and my skates would pull me under and keep me down.

"GOT VERY TIRED"

"While this was going on I noticed a man, knee deep in the water, breaking a path through the ice. Then someone from behind began pushing me up. After that they got very tired, I guess, and had to let me go. I saw someone in front of me and grabbed him but only pushed him under. The next thing I knew there was a willow branch and a board in front of me.

"I grabbed both of them. My knees then hit something. It could have been the bottom or it could have been Chuck O'Sullivan. I relaxed now and let myself be pulled out of the water. I was still part way in the water, slumped over some rocks, when two men picked me up and carried me to a house on Douglas Street. One of the men was a cab driver. In the house they stripped me and wrapped me in blankets. They filled me a cup of tea and whisky and had me drink it."

Said Clement Nadon, Fernie's brother:

SHOUTED WARNING

"I was playing hockey. I saw Fernie skate away from us and then disappear through the ice. Then he came up as high as his shoulders. I skated as close to him as I could get and then began to crawl towards him. Then the human chain came with Chuck O'Sullivan leading it. Fernie kept shouting that I should keep back. He was afraid that I would crash through the ice. I asked Chuck for the hockey stick and reached it over to Fernie. He grabbed it and began to pull himself on top of the ice.

"His extra weight on the ice made it dip and the water began to cover it. Before we knew what was happening, Chuck and I were in the water. Chuck yelled to me to hold Fernie up. After a few minutes, I began to struggle as my clothes had become water-soaked. Then Fernie grabbed me and pushed me under the water. I touched bottom. When I came up, I shouted to the people on shore.

WENT DOWN AGAIN

"Then I went down the second time. While I was under the water, I unzipped my jacket but couldn't get it off. When I came up this time, I saw a branch in front of me. I grabbed it and pulled myself to about five feet from shore. I stood there trying to catch my breath. A man then brought me to shore where I got artificial respiration. Then I was brought to the patrol wagon. I asked a man if Fernie and Chuck were safe. He told me that Fernie was all right and that another boy had gone home. When Mercer came in I asked him if he was Chuck. Then Longpre arrived. We wondered if Chuck was safe. Then we were taken home."

Said Edward Longpre, 14, 1336 Johnson Street:

"We were playing hockey when we heard the cries that Fernie Nadon was in the water. Clem skated as fast as he could with Chuck right behind. Three or four others started to form a chain behind Clem and Chuck. I was second from the last. The next thing I knew the ice started to crack.

CAN'T SWIM

"I can't swim so I grabbed a fellow next to me and then caught the ice. There was some kid about nine or ten right at the edge of the ice trying to hand me a stick. I don't know who this little fellow is but I would like to thank him for his brave effort.

"Someone then threw me a rope, and when I got out I heard they were all safe. The police took me home. When Chuck didn't appear on the altar that night some of the boys went to his home. There was no doubt in my mind that poor Chuck was still in the lake."

Vancouver Canuck goalie Hec Highton did not receive much help from his defencemen at Memorial Arena last night but he was well protected on this attempt by Jack McIntyre to add to Cougar scoring. Defenceman Joe Crozier is shown on top of McIntyre, immediately in front of Highton, while Canuck's Bob Ballance tries to dig puck out from under them. Vancouver's Church Russell (7), Eddie Dorohoy (centre background) and Eddie Mazur (11) wait for possible loose puck. Referee Dick Davis called face-off to relieve pressure on Highton, who is scheduled to be replaced by Don O'Hearn in Vancouver nets at Seattle tonight.

Monarchs Win Again At Nanaimo

Keglers Set For Berth In Play-Offs

Second round of Gibson's Mixed Fivepin League was completed with only one team earning a place in the post-season play-offs. Although winning only one point from Windsor U-Drive, Night Hawks ended in a first-place tie with their opponents to qualify for a play-off spot.

Windsor U-Drive qualified in the first round, as did Southall Stoves which finished the second round in third place. Young's Radio was the other first-round qualifier.

Seven-Up and Rex Music Studios finished one and three points out of third place, respectively. The latter team had no chance when Southall Stoves split the points with the Times to wind up with 22 points but the Bottlers lost a chance for a third-place tie when they dropped the first game to Automotive Parts by 15. The two top teams wound up with 24 points each.

TV Witness Tells Story Of Ice Fracas

NEW YORK, Jan. 30 (AP). — A woman testified in Federal Court yesterday about a National Hockey League game fight she saw on a ten-inch television screen although she was miles away from the arena.

Federal Court attaches said they knew of no other case in legal history where such TV evidence had been admitted.

Despite the testimony of Mrs. Sophie Eisenberg of Brooklyn, the plaintiff, Jonas Walvisch, a diamond-cutter, lost a $75,000 damage suit against Madison Square Garden, Montreal Canadiens and Emile Bouchard of the Canadiens.

Walvisch said he was in the Garden, March 16, 1947, to watch the Montreal team play New York Rangers.

He claimed Ken Reardon, then with the Canadiens, slugged him during an altercation and that Bouchard hit him with a hockey stick.

LEAVING GAME

Reardon testified he was hurt and leaving the game when Walvisch yelled:

"Good for you, you . . ., I've been waiting for you for eight years to get it."

Reardon said he started toward the fan but was stopped by others before he reached him.

Mrs. Eisenberg said she saw the altercation and that just as Walvisch waved at her, Bouchard swung his stick in the direction of the defendant.

Federal Judge Irving R. Kaufman threw out the damage count against the Garden. A jury cleared Bouchard and the Montreal team.

Vancouver	14	21	13	147	191	41
Seattle	14	22	10	158	154	38

Next game, tonight: Vancouver at Seattle.

Victoria Cougars fiddled about a bit at Memorial Arena last night but when they started to roll, there was little the shorthanded Vancouver Canucks could do about it. Perhaps lucky to hold a 1-0 lead at the end of the first period and tossing away a 2-0 lead, the Cougars suddenly broke loose and when Hec Highton had finished picking pucks out of his net, the score was 9-3 and Victoria was two points closer to the P.C.H.L. lead.

Another capacity crowd didn't mind some loose hockey as the Cougars made it nine straight on home ice and extended their current winning streak to four games while jubilantly running up a score on the club they most like to beat. Coupled with Tacoma's 4-1 win over New Westminster at Tacoma, the result left the Cougars but six points behind the Royals with a game in hand and a chance to cut further into the lead Friday when the Prattmen visit here.

EVEN IN LOSSES

Last night's was the Cougar's 23rd triumph, putting them one ahead of last season's total games won with 21 games left to play. Royals' loss was their 16th of the season, leaving the top two clubs tied for the league low in setbacks.

Down to 12 players, the Canucks faded noticeably after their lone spurt tied the score in the second period and Highton, who had a rather coolish night in what may be his last game for Vancouver, had little protection from his defence.

Highton will be replaced by Don (Nip) O'Hearn for tonight's game with Seattle at Seattle and the Canucks also hope to have Francis (Red) Kane, husky defenceman who played in the Southern Division last season, in strip tonight. More reinforcements are reportedly on the way for the bedraggled Halifman.

Cougars were loose defensively in the first period last night and can thank Jerry Cotnoir for the fact they held a 1-0 lead at the end of the first 20 minutes. Cotnoir robbed Norm Kirk twice and Bill Shill once on particularly good saves.

Cotnoir took a goal from Mike Narduzzi as the second period started in a save that may have turned the tide of the game. Joe Evans broke away alone from his own blueline to make it 2-0 as he found the short side after outracing two pursuers. Stan Long took a penalty for dropping on the puck and the Canucks quickly tied it up while they had the advantage. It was the first time in weeks that the Cougars had been scored on while playing shorthanded.

As soon as Long returned, the Cougars opened it up and Jack McIntyre, Ed Mazur and Bob Frampton each flashed the light behind Highton in a space of two minutes and 21 seconds. Fiori Googan's blueline shot went in off Larry Reardon's skate to make it 6-2 before the period ended.

EVERYONE IN ACT

Out to fatten their individual point totals, the Cougars stormed around the tiring Canucks in the final period, banged in three more goals and missed twice as many by narrow margins. The game assumed a farcial aspect late in the period when Narduzzi drew a penalty and the Cougars did their level best to give Don Webster a goal.

Webster, who scored one goal in the first half and has ambitions to duplicate the feat before regular season play ends, stationed himself at the edge of the crease much to Highton's annoyance and stayed there for almost a full two minutes without getting a chance as his teammates stormed around inside the Vancouver zone. The only player to suffer was Cotnoir, who saw an unnecessary goal chalked against his record when Canucks finally broke away.

Soccer Moguls Optimistic; Slate Matches

Officials of the Victoria and District Football League, hopeful that the weather will break, have tentatively scheduled three games this week-end.

League play will resume after a lengthy layoff on Saturday when Duncan Native Sons tangle with league-leading Victoria West at Royal Athletic Park. If the park ground is not playable the game will be held at Lower Beacon Hill.

Two fixtures are billed for Sunday. Britannias will meet Esquimalt at Lower Beacon Hill while Alcos are playing Oak Bay at Heywood Avenue. All games will start at 2:15 p.m.

Seek Conway

VANCOUVER, Jan. 30 (CP). — Kerrisdale Monarchs of the Mainline-Okanagan Hockey League are seeking Kevin (Crusher) Conway, cast off yesterday by Vancouver Canucks of the Pacific Coast Hockey League.

Conway denied reports he would join Nanaimo Clippers of the M.O.H.L.

Minor Hockey Play-Off Dates Decided; Vics Begin Series Here February 14

The Vancouver Island Junior Hockey League play-offs will begin February 14, it was decided at a Pacific Coast Amateur Hockey Association meeting at Nanaimo last Sunday.

The play-offs will be between the two top clubs in the three-team league and will be a best-of-three series.

The first game will be played in Victoria and the second game will take place February 17 in Nanaimo—if Nanaimo wins second place—or in Victoria if Navy captures the runner-up spot. The third game, if necessary, will be played in Victoria on February 21.

The cutting of the league schedule has enabled Victoria Vics to clinch first place. The other play-off position is now being vied for by Nanaimo and Navy. The Native Sons currently hold a slight margin but Navy could win the berth if they defeat Nanaimo in their next two encounters.

THREE GAMES LEFT

Only three games remain in the league schedule. Victoria Vics and Nanaimo will play at Memorial Arena tonight; Navy will meet Nanaimo at Nanaimo next Tuesday, and Nanaimo plays Navy at Victoria next Wednesday.

Dates for the juvenile, midget and bantam play-offs were also released at the meeting.

The Victoria Minor Hockey Association Juvenile All-Stars will play a Mainland all-star team here on March 7 and 8 in a two-game total-goal series. There is no other Island team entered in the juvenile play-offs.

The bantam and midget division play-offs with Nanaimo clubs will both be two-game total-goal series. The bantam all-stars play Nanaimo in Nanaimo on March 20 and in Victoria the following day. The midget all-stars play Nanaimo at Nanaimo on March 6 and in Victoria March 7.

Games scheduled in the Victoria Minor Hockey Association this week follow:

Wednesday—
7:00 p.m., Juveniles, Bruins vs. Maroons.
8:00 p.m., Juveniles, Royals vs. Capitals.
9:00 p.m., V.I. Junior League, Vics vs. Nanaimo.

Thursday—
9:30 a.m., Juvenile All-Star contest.

Saturday—
Royals
6:30 a.m., Midget Playoff, Bruins vs.
7:30 a.m., Midget Playoff, Cubs vs. Maroons.
8:30 a.m., Bantams, Cubs vs. Senators.
9:30 a.m., Bantams, Royals vs. Bruins.
10:30 a.m., Pee Wees tryouts.
5:30 p.m., Junior House League.

Tuesday, February 6, 4:45 p.m., Midget playoff, Capitals vs. Senators.

All playoffs are best of three in local playoffs.

The league-leading Vics dominate the loops' individual scoring race.

Bob McConechy, smooth Vic centre, paces the point-scorers with 20. His ten assists are also a league high. Archie Courtnall, also of Vics, is runner-up two points behind.

LEADS IN GOALS

Navy's "Bunker" Hill tops the league in goals scored with 12 and is tied for fifth place with 14 points. Nanaimo's No. 1 point-scorer, Millburn, is tied with Art Green of Vics for third place.

Derek McCooey, Vics agile netminder, has the best goaling average. McCooey has only 27 goals scored on him in 15 games for goals against average of 1.81. Hodgson of Nanaimo has an average of 3.61. McCooey also has the most shutouts, three.

The league-leaders also hold the dubious honor of having served the most minutes in the penalty box. Vics have spent a total of 146 minutes for infractions of the rules. Chief among the offenders is Arnold Elliott with 41 minutes.

IT BEATS ME

By Jim Tang

No sport has more faithful followers than skiing. In spite of my Scandinavian background, I never could quite understand why so many people could be so anxious to overcome so many obstacles just to slide around on some snow with a glorified pair of barrel staves. That is, I never culd understand it until yesterday's mail brought at least a partial solution from—of all places—the Jamaica News Bureau. Its press release quotes—of all people—Walter A. Madigan, "an authority on wines and liquors."

Mr. Madigan starts by asking a question: "After a day on the slopes in the crisp air and many a thrilling descent on powder snow, what could be more fitting than a hot buttered rum or a rum toddy before a crackling fireplace in the late afternoon?"

"They wrap themselves around one's innards," Mr. Madigan offered continuing to make a suggestion which may make skiers out of a lot of people who ordinarily find freezing temperatures and snow nothing but a hardship: "If you like the slopes and trails I might suggest that you carry in your luggage, or even in your rucksack, a few plastic cups, a pint of Jamaica rum, a thermos of boiling water, a lemon, and brown sugar with some allspice. Put a half teaspoonful of sugar in each cup, squeese in some lemon juice, pour in approximately one and a half ounces of rum, fill up with boiling water, shake on spice and stir, then down the hatch with it in several appreciative gulps. This is a satisfying part of the day, on or off skis."

Just in case you belong in the category he so obviously fits, our Mr. Madigan is well prepared for that eventuality, too: "For those who prefer to watch the activities of the snowy slopes and ski runs from the warm and comfortable confines of an arm chair and a television set these cold Winter days and evenings, might I suggest a planter's punch, or, if there is a desire to serve guests something new and novel, slip into the kitchen and make up a tray of Chinese cocktails with thin cucumber sandwiches."

A thorough type, Mr. Madigan even gives a recipe—for the Chinese cocktails: One dash Angostura bitters, three dashes maraschino, three dashes curacao, one-third grenadine, two-third Jamaica rum. Stir well in cracked ice and strain into cocktail glasses.

Ski hell, Galedsprung, or something.

Hall Remanded

VANCOUVER, Jan. 30 (CP).—Coley Hall, owner of Vancouver Canucks of the Pacific Coast Hockey League, and David Dauphinee, manager of Vancouver Forum, were remanded for one week when they appeared in police court, Monday, on charges laid under the Fire Marshal's Act. The charges involve selling standing room tickets to a game, January 19, at the Forum.

Four Teams Get Berths In Island Hoop Tourney

Four berths in the Vancouver Island invitational inter-high school basketball tournament have now been decided.

North Saanich defeated Mount Newton 28-25 Monday to win a two-game total-point series 60-49 and earn the right to represent School Districts 62 and 63 in the tourney.

Other entries already decided are Victoria High, the host club; Nanaimo and Alberni, favored by many as the team to beat. Mount View, Esquimalt and Oak Bay are in the midst of a round-robin series to decide the other two Victoria and district entrants. Courtenay and Tsolum will play off for the right to represent the northern part of the Island, and Cowichan Lake and Ganges will meet to decide the Cowichan area representative.

TWO-DAY MEET

The two-day Vancouver Island tournament for The Colonist Cup will be held at Victoria High School February 23 and 24. Competition will begin at 1 p.m. each day, with each club playing a minimum of two games and a maximum of three games in the double elimination tournament. All rules of the British Columbia high school tournament will be in force except the rule governing eligibility of school players in commercial leagues. The principal of each school will judge the eligibility of any player from his school.

Competition in the Interscholastic Basketball League will begin Friday with a double-header at Victoria High School. Victoria College, favored to win the title this year, will meet Normal School in the opener at 7:30 p.m., with Victoria High Totems, last season's champions, opposing Royal Roads in the finale at 8:45.

New Prodigy Sets Records In Australia

SYDNEY, Australia, Jan. 30 (AP).—Australia's newest swimming wonder is Barry Darke, a schoolboy just turned 15. The Sydney Sunday Herald called him the greatest swimming prodigy this country has produced.

Darke splashed into prominence at the start of the New South Wales state championships in January by setting some Australian junior records.

Before the carnival was over he had erased open Australian records held by Arne Borg (Sweden), K. Nakama (U.S.), and John Marshall (Australia).

In one swim for the 1,650 yards free-style title, he smashed five Australian open records, and one "best by an Australian" record at the North Sydney Olympic Pool. Darke's time for the 1,650 yards was 19 minutes, 25.1 seconds. He beat the titleholder, Barrie Kelleway, by 75 yards.

Purse Demands Turned Down By Operators

VANCOUVER, Jan. 30 C.—Purse proposals made by operators of the Lansdowne and Exhibition Park race tracks were refused last night by British Columbia horsemen.

They demanded an increase of $75 on the minimum purse offered last year at Exhibition Park and a $100 increase for Lansdowne. They said they want an answer by March 1.

Demands would mean a $950 purse for Lansdowne and a $1,000 purse for Exhibition Park. Last season Lansdowne paid $850 and Exhibition $925.

The operators offered $850 minimums at each track with an added four per cent of everything over $4,000,000 wagered at Exhibition Park.

Mainland Aces Enter City Paddle Meet

The Victoria city open table tennis championships will be held at the Strathcona Hotel tomorrow, Friday and Saturday.

Among the top paddle artists competing will be Art Ngai and Nancy Craig. Ngai is the current city champion while Mrs. Craig holds both the Western Canada and the City titles.

Victorians vieing with Art for his title are his brothers Eddie, Stan and Charlie, Will Browne-Cave, Ab Renfrew and Ray Dawson. Eddie Ngai is the current Western Canada champion.

Mrs. Craig will be opposed by such stars as Valerie Druce and Faith Macdonald of Victoria and Betty Reid and Enid Smith, who will make the trip from Vancouver.

A strong male contingent from Vancouver will also compete. Included are Art Barron, who recently defeated Ngai in the finals of the Vancouver city open tournament, and Jim Bernie and Jim Hair.

Coming from Seattle are Western Canada champion Bob Kenny, Glen Durr and Ron Jones.

Draw for each night's play will be announced later.

U.S. Champion Blames Boos For Net Defeat

SYDNEY, Australia, Jan. 30 (Reuters).—Art Larsen of San Leandro, Calif., United States champion who was booed by the fans during his losing semi-final match in the Australian tennis championships Monday, told reporters before leaving for home today that he had made a mistake in coming to Australia.

"If Australia wants international tennis players to come here the crowds will have to forget their grudge against the visitors," he said. "They seem to think that their own boys are kings and won't have them beaten."

Larsen thought that at least half the spectators knew nothing about tennis but just sat there and criticized.

"I came here to win the Australian championship but got nothing but boos. I had a bad break."

Haldorsen Tops Scoring Race

MINNEAPOLIS, Jan. 30 (AP).—Len Haldorsen of Tulsa Oilers holds a slim lead among the scoring leaders in the United States Hockey League.

He has 61 points, only one more than Cal Stearns of Kansas City who, in turn is being pressed by his team-mate, Ike Hildebrand, with 58. Haldorsen also tops the assists list with 43, Ian Mackintosh of St. Paul is the leading goal-getter with 31.

The leaders:

Rookie Award Of N.H.L. Sought by 17

MONTREAL, Jan. 30 (CP). — National Hockey League records today show that 17 rookies are eligible for the Calder Memorial Trophy, awarded annually to "the player selected as the most proficient in his first year of competition in the National Hockey League."

They have all played 20 or more games. Any player who has played less than 20 games is believed to have little chance for the award.

Montreal Canadiens boast five of their players in the rookie category: Tom Johnson, Vern Kaiser, Paul Maznick, Gerry McNeil and Bud MacPherson. Detroit has four: Marcel Pronovost, Terry Sawchuck, Clare Raglan and Vic Stasiuk. Next comes Boston with three: Lorne Ferguson, Ross Lowe and Max Quackenbush. Rangers have two, Jack Evans and Reg Sinclair, as have Toronto with Danny Lewicki and Al Rollins. Chicago has only one eligible, Hugh Colfin.

Three of these rookies, Sawchuck, McNeil and Rollins are goalkeepers; Lowe, Quackenbush, Colfin, Pronovost, Raglan, Johnson, MacPherson and Evans are defencemen; while Ferguson, Stasiuk, Kaiser, Masnik, Sinclair and Lewicki are forwards.

Golf— Here's How

By SAM SNEAD

Golf's Greatest Player-Teacher

This is a picture of how not to play golf. I hope it will aid you in analyzing your game. The stance is too wide open. It will tend to cause the player to swing outside-in across the direction line and either slice the ball or shoot it to the left rough. The right hands should be moved up and over the club grip. The left arm is bent where it should be straight. The player is bending too far over. He should straighten up some and stand nearer the ball. This player will swing flat instead of upright although he has the build of an upright swinger. The upright swing is the best swing, with the hands bisecting the distance between the right shoulder and head at the top of the backswing. I hope all members of this class spotted these errors but, anyway, let's benefit by them.

Uncle Wiggily Story - - -

By Howard Garis

MR. WHITEWASH'S SURPRISE

Uncle Wiggily and the searching party from Hollow Tree School started out in the snow to find Ned die Stubtail. That little boy bear had wandered away from the home den and Mr. Stubtail had gone to the school, hoping Neddie might be there.

"But Neddie was not at the school. The Lady Mouse Teacher had not seen Neddie since Thanksgiving, for Neddie had then started his long Winter hibernating sleep. But, as sometimes happens to hibernating bears, Neddie had awakened one warm day and had become lost.

"But I am sure you will find Neddie," said Miss Mouse to the daddy bear. "With the help of Uncle Wiggily, Mr. Coke, our janitor, and with the help of Foxie, Wolfie and Bobbie the bobcat, you will find Neddie, I am sure."

"I hope so," said Mr. Stubtail.

"We shall all do our best to help you, Stubby," said Uncle Wiggily.

"Where had we better look first?" asked Mr. Coke.

"I know a place where Neddie used to play in the woods when it was Summer," said Foxie. "Maybe he has gone there now, hoping there would be a little of Summer left."

"Let's go look there," said Uncle Wiggily. But Neddie was not in the woods. Nor could he be found in the snow-covered fields. The searching party looked in a place where there were many rocks, piled up together like a den for bears. But Neddie was not there.

"Perhaps Neddie has gone to the top of School Hill to slide down," said Bobbie the bobcat. "Let's look there."

But Neddie was not on top of School Hill.

"Where shall we next look?" asked Mr. Stubtail.

"I have an idea where we may find Neddie."

"Where?" asked Mr. Stubtail eagerly.

"Follow me and I will show you," said Uncle Wiggily. "I may be wrong so I will not tell you until we get close to the place where I think Neddie may be found."

Uncle Wiggily hopped on ahead through the snow which was not too deep. On and on hopped the rabbit gentleman, his pink nose twinkling very fast. Wolfie, who was following, said to the others:

"Uncle Wiggily is hopping toward the snow igloo house of Mr. Whitewash the polar bear. I wonder why Uncle Wiggily is going there?"

"Let's follow and we shall soon find out," said Mr. Coke.

Uncle Wiggily was, really, hopping toward the polar bear's igloo, which was near the hollow stump bungalow. And just about this same time, Mr. Whitewash, who had gone to sleep, suddenly awakened.

The polar bear was surprised to feel someone trying to get in bed with him. At first Mr. Whitewash thought it might be some of his frozen fish twiddling themselves around his nose. But when Mr. Whitewash opened his eyes, he saw, looking at him a round, fuzzy, funny, little black face.

"Hello!" growled the polar bear. "Who are you?"

"I am Neddie Stubtail," was the answer. "I went out [illegible] this was such a nice day. But I went too far. I am lost. I don't know where my home den is. But I saw your igloo so I crawled in, Mr. Whitewash. May I stay here and finish my sleep?"

"I think I had better take you to your home den, Neddie," said the kind polar bear. "Your daddy may be looking for you. Come with me."

And when Mr. Whitewash led Neddie outside the igloo, there was Uncle Wiggily and the searching party.

"I thought perhaps we might find Neddie here," said Uncle Wiggily.

"Ha! Ha! Ha!" laughed Mr. Stubtail. "You were right, Wiggy! Now Neddie is found and we are all happy. Come home with me, Neddie."

So the little lost bear was found.

And if the snow shovel will put some white marshmallow candies in the rice pudding to make it look like ice cream, I'll tell you another story on Monday.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel — And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out about 2 pints of bile juice into your digestive tract every day. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food may not digest. It may just decay in the digestive tract. Then gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. You feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

It takes those mild, gentle Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these 2 pints of bile flowing freely to make you feel "up and up." Get a package today. Effective in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. 25c at any druggists.

Play-Off Games Set Tonight For Hoopsters

Three city basketball quintettes have to overcome large deficits in the second games of total-point series tonight in order to avoid elimination from further play-off competition.

C. & C. Taxi and Forresters clash in the opening contest on a three-game card at the Victoria High School gymnasium at 7 p.m. The Cabgirls hold a 17-point lead from their 41-24 triumph last week and can wrap up the city intermediate "B" girls' crown by holding the margin tonight.

Victoria College Vikings intermediate "A" men's team faces the toughest task. They trail Chinese Students by 32 points in the semi-final and need a one-sided win to earn the right to meet Victoria High Totems for the city championship.

The Victoria College senior "B" men's team also is on the short end of the score in a semi-final series with Shamrocks. The Irish needs only to protect a 17-point margin to move into the final against Arrow Furniture.

Guilty of Paying Rent, No More, Accused Says

Trial of Arnold Frederickson, 19, formerly of Bella Coola, charged with keeping a bawdy house, was postponed in city police court yesterday until Thursday after a change of plea.

Frederickson is charged jointly with Pauline Frederickson who has pleaded guilty.

Frederickson himself had pleaded guilty to the charge, but after preliminary remarks by Magistrate H. C. Hall he declared he was not guilty of the offence, but declined the magistrate's suggestion that he change his plea.

"Well, you can't have it both ways," the magistrate said. "You must plead either guilty or not guilty."

"It is both ways, your honor," Frederickson said. "I was told by the officers that if the house was used for that purpose, whoever paid the rent was guilty of the offence . . . I plead guilty to paying the rent but I had nothing to do with the business."

The magistrate took that as a plea of not guilty and remanded him to Thursday for trial.

GAMING CHARGE

Erskine Anderson and Robert McMillan, 617 Gorge Road, were charged jointly with keeping a common gaming house and remanded to Friday without plea. Arthur Dawe represented the pair.

HIT BY TRAIN

Beatrice George, who received extensive injuries, October 9, when struck by an Esquimalt & Nanaimo passenger train, was charged with trespassing on the track, and given a suspended sentence.

Sgt. Herbert Look, Canadian Pacific Railway, told the court the defendant was walking along the main line ahead of the passenger train. The engineer, he explained, made an attempt to bring the train to a stop but was unable to do so. The accused was hospitalized until December 2, Sgt. Look testified.

"These regulations are to stop people from getting hurt. However, I think you have suffered enough so I will suspend sentence," said the magistrate.

REMANDED

Chu Kang, Leechtown, charged with being in possession of opium, was remanded to Thursday when his counsel, James J. Proudfoot, was unable to attend court because of illness. H. W. Davey, K.C., is Crown prosecutor in the case.

Lloyd Ernest Ward, 1840 Newton Street, charged with doing wilful damage by breaking a window at 554 Fisgard Street, was remanded to this morning for judgment. G. A. Lauder defended Ward. The defence was that the window was broken by accident.

Charged with careless driving, R. K. Jensen, 1228 Oscar Street, was remanded to Thursday for judgment. Verdun Rothwell, 840 Tolmie Avenue, similarly charged, was remanded to the same day. George F. Gregory defended Jensen, and J. A. Byers appeared for Rothwell.

Pile-Driving Company Plans New City Wharf

MARINE AND TRAVEL NEWS

A new wharf to accommodate equipment of the Pacific Pliedriving Company Limited will be built shortly on the east side of Johnson Street Bridge, company officials announced yesterday.

Property valued at about $10,000 was recently purchased by the company near the warehouse of W. H. Malkin Company Limited.

A company spokesman said the recent development of the company and added pile-driving equipment made it necessary to build the dock.

PLANE TOWED IN

The R.C.A.F. Air-Sea Rescue Canso aircraft which struck a buoy when landing in Nanaimo Harbor last week and partially sank is probably the largest craft to navigate the 180-foot wide Dodds Narrows south of Nanaimo.

The big amphibious plane was towed 42 miles to Patria Bay seaplane base by the Air Force supply vessel Songhee on Saturday for repairs before taking off for Vancouver.

The craft has a win span of 104 feet, but under the able seamanship of Sqdn. Ldr. S. N. Burridge, commanding officer of 122 Marine Squadron, it was towed safely through the narrow passage.

Nearly all the instruments and electrical motors and equipment of the plane had been ruined by salt water, but the 4 twin engines, mounted on the high wings, were undamaged.

According to Sqdn. Ldr. Burridge temporary repairs will be made and the plane flown back to Sea Island sometime today.

TOW TRAWLER

The marine squadron carried out another rescue operation yesterday morning when it towed the 54-foot Diesel-powered trawler, Violet P., from a reef southeast of Moresby Island.

Four Victoria brothers, Raymond, Rowland, Jack and Bert Prince, were aboard the craft when she grounded. They took to a rowboat and rowed about six miles to Sidney.

The men were put aboard the Air Force high speed launch Melecite which went and pulled the trawler free.

After a short tow the engines of the Violet P. were started and she managed to make her way to Sidney Marina at Shoal Bay.

LAKONIA DUE

A regular caller at Victoria, the Donaldson Line freighter Lakonia is expected to dock Friday at Ogden Point from Vancouver. She will load about 500,000 feet of lumber for the United Kingdom and is expected to leave Saturday.

WELCOME

Wives and freinds will be allowed to greet the two Navy frigates Antigonish and Beacon Hill when they return to Esquimalt at 3 p.m. from a 27-day training cruise in Mexican waters. The ships will dock at the Public Works Department dock at H.M.C.S. Naden.

R. P. Macmillan Applying To Quash Gorge Rezoning

THE city was served legal notice yesterday that Robert P. Macmillan was applying to the Supreme Court of British Columbia to quash a zoning by-law passed two weeks ago by City Council.

The by-law designates as a commercial zone property on the south side of the Gorge Road from the Victoria Nursing Home to the C.N.R. crossing. The by-law permits the granting of an application to construct an auto court on a parcel of property between Washington Avenue and Irma Street.

Mr. Macmillan is attempting to quash the by-law on grounds that the published notice of the public hearing on the by-law was "deceptive and misleading" and not a sufficient notice under the Town Planning Act; that council acted prior to receipt of a report from its Town Planning Commission.

Sentenced to Jail

Doctor Plans to Appeal Drunk Driving Verdict

Conviction of Dr. George W. Fletcher, 410 Simcoe Street, on a drunken driving charge will be appealed, W. H. M. Haldane, K.C., Dr. Fletcher's lawyer, said yesterday.

Magistrate H. C. Hall yesterday sentenced the 72-year-old doctor to seven days in jail. The magistrate ruled that the doctor be "absolutely" prohibited from driving for three months, and for the subsequent nine months permitted to drive for business purposes only.

Magistrate Hall, before sentencing the doctor, said he didn't intend to impose the 15-day sentence he has been levying lately.

BECAUSE OF AGE

"I want it clearly understood, though, that this is only because of the doctor's age," stressed Magistrate Hall. The licence suspension, he said, would be lighter than usual, also because of his age, and because of the doctor's duties.

Mr. Haldane made an application for the return of $500 bail, estreated when Dr. Fletcher didn't appear in court the day after his arrest. The bail was put up by Dr. E. L. McNiven.

"It was a complete misunderstanding," declared Mr. Haldane. He added that he would like to call Dr. McNiven who didn't recall anyone telling the accused to be in court the next day.

WILL INVESTIGATE

"I'd like to get it clear," put in City Prosecutor Claude L. Harrison. "I'll look into it and see if he was notified."

Magistrate Hall said he would hear the application next Tuesday.

In passing judgment on the driving charge, Magistrate Hall said evidence of events leading up to the collision warranted a conviction. He reviewed the evidence in considerable detail.

The magistrate referred to the evidence of witnesses who told of the doctor's abusive and insulting language after the collision, adding he was sure under ordinary circumstances the doctor wouldn't act in such a manner. A lot of witnesses said the accused was intoxicated, noted Magistrate Hall.

MEDICAL EVIDENCE

Referring to medical evidence that Dr. Fletcher's actions might have been caused by the concussion he suffered, Magistrate Hall said:

"That this is a possibility is not questioned."

The magistrate concluded by saying that although the accused was supposed to have been suffering from concussion, he had remembered very well one vitally important point. He didn't think this would be possible if there was concussion.

Rail Unions Urge Change In Grounds for Divorce

Change in divorce laws to permit divorce when either party has been committed to a mental institution with no possibility of a permanent cure, was advocated by the Standard Railway Brotherhoods in a brief presented to the Provincial Cabinet yesterday.

The delegation also urged:

Re-imposition of price control and continuation of rent control.

Prohibition by the Government of the sale of spring knives, "currently being carried by young hoodlums," and imposition of severe penalties.

Raising of the exemption on meals under the 3 per cent sales tax from 50 cents to $1.

Nationwide daylight saving time or none at all.

BIGGER BOARDS

Opposition to one-man commissions and boards, such as the Milk Board and the Liquor Commission, and placing of labor representatives on expanded boards.

Development of a national transportation code to cover all classes of carriers.

Change in the Evidence Act so that anyone summonsed as a witness would be paid fees to cover loss of wages.

That the Provincial Government strongly oppose unrestricted immigration until all Canadian citizens were gainfully employed.

That the I.C.A. Act be amended to provide that employees lose no pensions or benefits as a result of a strike or lockout.

HIGHER PENSIONS

That the Province should support changes in old-age pensions for more liberal allowances and allow holding of property of a higher value than at present.

That a temporary increase in workmen's compensation payments be granted pending completion of the report of the Royal Commission now inquiring into operation of the Act.

That persons between 65 and 70 whose incomes are below the amount specified by the Old Age Pension Act be granted exemption from payment of Hospital Insurance premiums.

That Mothers' Allowances be increased to $60 a month with $18 for each dependent.

Previewed Picture Excellent

By RON BAIRD

I'd Climb the Highest Mountain (20th Century-Fox, in Technicolor)—Starring Susan Hayward and William Lundigan, with Gene Lockhart, Lynn Bari, Alexander Knox and Rory Calhoun.

An excellent picture about the problems of a young minister (Lundigan) and his bride (Hayward) in making life more enjoyable for the residents of a small Georgia village. Previewed yesterday at the Dominion Theatre for a number of the city clergy and representatives of local women's groups.

The film tells how the minister and his wife gain the confidence of the villagers by helping them through an illness that strikes down several of the children, arranging a church picnic and spreading cheer among the simple, hard-working folk.

A thoughful job of casting was done throughout and both Miss Hayward and Mr. Lundigan handled their parts well and without any unnecessary "frills."

Alexander Knox is very good.

Although the theme is one of religion, the movie does not attempt to preach a sermon about anything, rather it is straight good entertainment about a young couple with a job on their hands.

Strongly recommended for all members of the family — it is scheduled to play here in about two weeks.

SAILS TODAY

The freighter Radnor, which is loading about 700,000 feet of lumber for the Atlantic seaboard, is expected to sail for Crofton today to complete loading. King Brothers Limited are agents for the ship.

A crew from Victoria Machinery Depot Limited worked all day yesterday on engine repairs on the ship.

Carnegie Class Celebrates After Course

A 16-week Dale Carnegie Institute course in public speaking and human relations ended last night with the graduation of 15 students at a commencement banquet held in Terry's dining-room.

A program of impromptu talks, songs and dance preceded the presentation of diplomas by Instructor Warwick C. Angus.

Graduating students were Lydia Arsens, Frederick Coffin, Elizabeth Cameron, Ralph Cloghesy, Walter Hamilton, Kenneth Lawson, Osten Linell, Norman Massey, Sheila McIvor, Emma McLellan, Helen McLellan and Daniel McLellan, Frank Porter, Jeremie Stevens and Lawrence Theaker.

BASED ON BOOK

The course is based on the principles laid down in Dale Carnegie's famous book, "How to Win Friends and Influence People" which is used as a text. The group meets once a week for 16 weeks and the classes are divided into dinner meeting sessions and public speaking before an audience.

Directors of classes are William Hardy and Gordon Robinson, both graduates of the school and members of the post-graduate organization, the Dale Carnegie Club International.

Chairmen of last night's graduation meeting was Class President Ralph Cloghesy.

Radio Men Set Up Body To Plan Defence Action

A special civil defence committee was set up yesterday by the B.C. Association of Broadcasters in convention at the Empress Hotel. Members will be named by the executive.

The committee will work in co-operation with the Provincial civil defence organization. It will be responsible for working with the Government body in planning a [illegible] for emergency.

The committee will also be responsible for working out a basic organization which will enable radio stations to fit into community civil defence plans.

Action by the broadcasters yesterday followed a round table conference. Attending for the Provincial committee were R. A. Pennington, deputy provincial secretary and defence chief; F. S. Johes, deputy minister of public works; E. W. Griffiths, deputy minister of welfare; Dr. G. R. F. Elliott, assistant provincial health officer, and A. H. Cameron.

The round table was under the chairmanship of M. V. Chesnut, manager of CJVI.

Re-elected were F. H. Elphicke, president; and William Reg, vice-president; Maurice Finnerty, of CKOK, Penticton, was named a director and under a change in the constitution, George Chandler, CJOR, past president, became an executive member.

The broadcasters will hold their next meeting at Trail and Nelson.

Premier Byron I. Johnson visited the session briefly yesterday.

Jane Russell, Robert Mitchum Click as Team, Hughes Feels

HEARD IN HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 30 (INS)—[illegible] on Jane Russell and Robert Mitchum as a team. He's just okayed the purchase of "Wild River" for Jane and Bob for a Wald-Krasna production some time this Summer. This makes four biggies for Russell and Mitchum—two completed and two coming up.

I think Howard has a point in keeping these supercharged personalities together. Remember the great teams of Garbo and Gilbert, Vilma Banky and Ronald Colman, Janet Gaynor and Charlie Farrell? Yep, screen lovers have always paid off at the box office.

"Wild River" is David Dortort's new novel about modern day boats on Ol' Man River. Jane plays a drifting lady and Bob a deckhand aboard a freighter operating on the Mississippi.

The world film favorite festival, put on by the Foreign Press Association of Hollywood at the Tennis Club, will long be remembered by the stars, the Hollywood press and the Palm Springs natives. Some fun—they tell me—with the foreign press playing host to 150 over the week-end.

As you know by now—Gregory Peck won "the most popular actor in the world award" for men—and Jane Wyman came up the most popular woman star. I hear our Janie did herself proud with a wonderful speech. Greg was in New York—but he spoke his appreciation and thanks on a tape recording.

Little Boy Lost

CHAPTER I

It was on Christmas Day, 1943, that Hilary Wainwright learnt that his little son was lost.

Festooned with tinsel, glittering with gifts, the Christmas tree shone out of the darkness. At the tip of each branch the little pink candles wavered and glowed, and in their faint light Hilary watched the faces around him, the faces of his mother, his sister, his small nephew and niece. Now the children's eyes were entranced, his sister's boisterous jollity had softened into tenderness, and in the soft gleam of the candles it was possible to imagine that his mother's face offered him, not the cold hostility that he must always match with bitterness, but the comfort and love he had again come despairingly to seek.

The little candles were quickly burning away. Already the children were straining forward, eager to despoil the tree. One day the illusion will endure, thought Hilary, the day that John is with me at last, and between the two excited children his imagination inserted a third, the image of his own son.

"Light on again!" ordered Mrs. Wainwright.

Now the illusion was shattered. The children were squabbling over their presents—"I wanted the Number Four set and Uncle Hilary's only given me the Number Two," sulked Rodney, and Hilary, who had struggled among the Christmas crowds in the toyshops, buying with another child in his mind, thought that John would not have been so ungracious, and again longed passionately for the little boy he had never known.

"I must be taking my kids off home," said Eileen at last. "Nice to have seen you again, Hilary. Do you get any time to write your highbrow poetry in that hush-hush job?" She guffawed at her own question, struggling into her coat. "Come along, brats," she called, and went out, driving her children before her.

"They're a dear little pair, aren't they?" said Mrs. Wainwright, coming back from the front door. "I expect you notice a great change in them. Why, you haven't been over to see us for ages."

They sat in armchairs on each side of the electric log fire. Mrs. Wainwright had the happy idea of bringing out the old snapshot album. "This was the first photograph we ever had of you," she said. "You were just three weeks old," and the memory of the total love she could give him in infancy enveloped them both in pleasing nostalgia. "Here's a nice one of your father just before we got married." The old doctor was miraculously recognizable in the eager young man leaning against the sundial, unprescient of the death that would leave his wife and son locked in bitter incessant strife. "Oh, here's the old house," said Hilary. Now the latent resentments began to stir, the irrational anger that his mother would not play the part he assigned to her—the dignified widow in the Queen Anne House by the cathedral close—but chose instead the bridge parties and the brittle gossip of the London suburb.

Mrs. Wainwright turned back the pages. "Look!" she said. There was Hilary at five, neat grey shorts and jacket, neat brown shoes and tidy socks, round grey felt hat pulled over wide laughing eyes, and a cheerful confident grin. His mother shot a quick sidelong glance at him and then murmured, "I wonder if [illegible] looks like that."

"Yes, I wonder," said Hilary, wondering with all his heart, and his mother said tentatively, "I do hope this horrible war will soon be over so that you can go and bring him home."

Hilary tested the moment. Is it possible, he asked himself, that the years of angry misunderstanding could be erased, that she could give me now and forever the comfort I so desperately need? Perhaps if I could only begin to tell her how much I long for my son—he was thinking; and then they heard the doorbell ring.

Hilary said, "I'll go."

The man who stood there was a stranger. He was about the same age as Hilary, and, like Hilary, tall and thin, but fair and with bright blue very tired eyes.

Culbertson On Bridge

(Copyright, 1951, by Ely Culbertson)

It isn't often that a player has the chance to exact a three-for-one exchange from the enemy, but East had that opportunity in the following case.

South, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable

♥ K 8 8
♦ 6 3
♣ Q 10 9 8 6 2

WEST
♠ K J 10 9 6
♥ 10 7 4 3
♦ K J 5
♣ J

EAST
♠ 8 4 3
♥ A 6 2
♦ Q 9 7 2
♣ K 5 4

SOUTH
♠ A Q 5
♥ Q J 9
♦ A 10 6 4
♣ A 7 3

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 N.T.	Pass	2 ♣	Pass
2 N.T.	Pass	3 N.T.	Pass
Pass	Pass

South was a little off-base when he refused to pass North's weakness takeout, and North was also pushing when he carried the two-no-trump rebid to game, but, with East's help, the combined optimism paid off.

West opened the spade jack. South won with the queen and led a low club, tempting the opponents to take their club trick immediately. West's blank jack was overtaken with the queen in dummy—and East fell! All East could see was that if he played low, declarer would lead the club ten through him, and in that way another East's king. East hoped that by taking the trick and returning a spade, he would find his partner with enough tricks to defeat the contract.

This hope, however, was not realized. On East's spade return, South ducked. West, as it happened, "could have been a hero" by shifting to diamonds, but he actually continued spades, and now South was safe. Declarer was lucky to find the heart ace in East's hand, instead of West's, but perhaps he deserved this luck because the enemy, notably East, had failed to defend correctly.

All East had to do, of course, was hold up the club king and in that way shut out three club tricks in dummy by blocking the suit. True, he would lose his king, but wasn't that a relatively minor tragedy?

For Eczema--- Skin Troubles

Make up your mind today that you are going to give your skin a real chance to get well. Go to any good drug store and get an original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil—it lasts many days because it is highly concentrated.

The very first application will give you relief—the itching of Eczema is quickly stopped—eruptions dry up and scale off in a very few days. The same is true of Itching Toes and Feet, Barber's Itch, Salt Rheum and other skin troubles.

Remember that Moone's Emerald Oil is a clean, powerful, penetrating Antiseptic Oil that does not stain or leave a greasy residue. Complete satisfaction or money back. (Advt.)

The time used is Pacific Standard for the 120th Meridian west. The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water. Where blanks occur in the tables, the tide rises or falls continuously during intervening times between the high and low waters as given. 0.6 feet must be subtracted from the heights in this table to conform with the datum of soundings on the charts of the locality.

Herman Melville, American author of "Moby Dick" who died in 1891, started life as a seaman at the age of 17.

Mrs. Annie Borgal, Box 214, Reserve Mines, N.S., is a well-known resident of the Maritimes. A young woman of 34, Mrs. Borgal suffered for many years with arthritic pain. She tried a great many remedies without success and the pain was so bad that she had difficulty in sleeping at night. Here is what Mrs. Borgal says in her letter: "I suffered with arthritic pain for 12 years, tried many remedies to get relief and could not. I could not get a good night's rest for the pains I had in my arms and legs. I would like you to know that the first bottle of SARNAK brought me relief. SARNAK so relieved my pain that I was able to get my rest and I am sure I will never find anything that does me as much good as SARNAK."

Yes, you should try SARNAK . . . as have thousands of others in Canada who suffer from rheumatic, neuritic and arthritic pain, sciatica, backache, dizzy spells, nutritional backache, lumbago or neuralgia, some minor forms of kidney and liver upsets, bilious dizzy spells, nutritional anemia, lack of vitality and nervousness caused by these symptoms. SARNAK is so effective for aches and pains and general run-down condition that you usually get results within the first few days.

Make up your mind to give SARNAK a chance to help you as it has helped thousands of others who had gone on day after day suffering. Thousands of bottles of SARNAK are sold every day in Canada. Remember, there are no substitutes for SARNAK. Always insist on the genuine SARNAK. In some rural sections where there are few drug stores, SARNAK may be difficult to obtain. Don't pay anyone more than $1.35 a bottle. Order by mail from your druggist or mail order house to assure yourself not paying grey market prices. If one druggist does not have SARNAK, try another.
